PEKING CLAIMS CHIHLI STILL HOLDS SHAOYANG; TRAFFIC ON T.P.R. HALTED

Peng Forces Of Feng Yu-hsiang And Wang Huai-ching Are All Sent To Front; Wu Pei-fu's Own Third Division At Fengtai Awaiting For Emergency Call

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 24.—Chaoyang is being held by a brigade of Yi Chi troops, while smaller posts of the same troops have been distributed in various centers of northeastern Chihli, mainly as a protection against bandits.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 24.—A mandate issued this morning formally cancels Marshal Chang Tso-lin's title, orders and decorations. The mandate attributes the present disturbance of peace and order solely to Marshal Chang Tso-lin himself, and promises the officers and men serving Marshal Chang reenrolment in the Government forces if they repent and declare their allegiance to the Government.

Peking, Sept. 24.—The Blue Express between Peking and Tientsin has been temporarily suspended, but is running normally between Pukou and Tientsin.

CHANG OUTLAWED
(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 23.—The President's Mandate of today's date deprives Marshal Chang Tso-lin of his office, rank, and decorations and declares that of the officers and men of the Fengtien troops, who surrender to the Central Government, shall be treated with respect.

Another Presidential Mandate of the same date sanctions the establishment of the General Headquarters of the Metropolitan Defence Forces, appointing General Kuo Yu-ko as Commander-in-Chief and Generals Sun Yueh, Nieh Jen-fan, Lin Mu-keng and two others as Vice Commanders of the Metropolitan Defence Forces.

Mukden, Sept. 23.—In view of the fact that as a sequel to the announcement recently made by the Chinese authorities concerned here that the official price of Fengtien Provincial convertible notes had been fixed at $150 for Y. 100, Japanese merchants are being obliged to settle their accounts with Chinese in the convertible notes which have now fallen from $150 to $200 for Y. 100.

Mr. Funatsu, Japanese Consul-General here, has for some time past demanded from the Chinese authorities the abolition of the officially fixed value of the notes in question. Accordingly, the latter yesterday addressed an official note to the Japanese Consul-General, stating that the fixed price would be cancelled, leaving alone as it commands its natural quotation.

Hankow, Sept. 24.—The telegraph office attached to the 25th Division in Wuchang, by order of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, is expected to proceed northward this afternoon. Marshal Wu, some time ago, gave orders to General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, immediately to raise military funds, General Hsiao has already sent the sum required to Peking together with 1,500 bales of rice.

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, Sept. 23.—Consequent upon the opening of hostilities between Chihli and Fengtien, the Chinese authorities concerned here have decided to circulate in the money-market those military notes, which have already been prepared for use. The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce in Mukden yesterday notified all the firms here that the said military notes are of the same nature as that of the convertible notes of Fengtien Province and at the same time distributed hand-bills, announcing that one dollar military notes can be exchanged for 100 coppers. There are three kinds of the military notes, viz. one, five, and ten dollars.

Peking, Sept. 24.—All the forces of Feng Yu-hsiang and Wang Hua-ching have been sent to the front. The maintenance of peace is left to Sun Yu, in command of the 15th mixed brigade. Nieh Hsieh-fang remains as commander of the Peking Garrisons.

The third division will be stationed in Fengtai and will be sent to the front only in case of necessity.

In compliance with the order of Wu Pei-fu, the commanders of the various forces at the front have filed with him diagrams showing the exact positions of the troops. Wu will leave for the front today to inspect the line of defence. His special car is ready to draw out any moment.

Wu Pei-fu has ordered Sun Chuan-fang to get into Hangchow within five days so that he can cooperate with Chi Hsieh-yuan in assaulting the Shanghai—Sungkiang area.

While adopting a non-interference attitude in the present civil strife, the Diplomatic Corps insists on the observation of its three demands on the question of the neutrality of Shanghai and Woosung.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Sept. 23.—"Little Hsu" (General Hsu Shu-tseng, one of the former Anfu military leaders) is reported to be in Mukden.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin's victory at Chaoyang this morning was complete, according to an official communique, which claims that 500 Chihli troops were killed and 300 taken prisoner. It also claims the capture of six field-guns, eight machine-guns and a thousand rifles, and that the Fengtien troops are pursuing the enemy in the direction of Liangyung, while the Sixth Army is advancing on Kailu.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 24.—The traffic on the Tientsin-Pukow line was closed for the present with the train which left here this morning at 9 o'clock, as the last one.

MAJOR ZANNI HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Picked Up Exhausted After His Motor-Boat Crashes Into Launch

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Sept. 24.—Major Zanni, his mechanic, Felipe Beltrame, and Senor Rouillon, the Peruvian Consul, had a narrow escape from drowning this morning in a collision in the harbor between a Government launch and the motor-boat on which the airmen were proceeding to their aeroplane to resume their flight, to Foochow, Major Zanni was picked up on the point of exhaustion.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Sept. 24.—Major Zanni and his companions left Kowloon at 8.15 this morning on board a motor-boat for their aeroplane for the purpose of resuming their flight to Foochow. When off the Naval Yard the motor-boat collided with the Government launch Victoria. The motor-boat was struck on the starboard quarter and slightly damaged. The impact caused it to heel over and Major Zanni and Senor Rouillon were thrown into the water. The mechanic jumped on board the launch. Senor Rouillon swam but Major Zanni disappeared and being unable to swim, was given up for lost by his companions. Another motor-boat which was passing by, however, picked up the airman and also the Peruvian Consul. The launch came round and took the party on board and landed them in Kowloon.

Major Zanni lost his pocket-book containing banknotes and a letter of credit, but recovered his chart. He retained his composure after the accident and seemed none the worse for the immersion.

The fliers hope to hop off for Foochow tomorrow morning.

CASUALTIES OF KIANGSU HIGHER THAN ESTIMATED

Second Division Almost Lost While Chi's 6th Loses One-Third

(Eastern News Agency)

Chinkiang, Sept. 21, (by mail).—Despite the fact that the Kiangsu military authorities are claiming victories, the public here appears to have no confidence in the allegation with the consequence that the citizens are still panic-stricken, taking refuge elsewhere one after another. Most of those, who once took refuge in Shanghai, are countrymen of the towns along the Shanghai-Nanking line, such as Soochow, Wusih, Quinsan, and Changchow.

Judging from all accounts available, it appears that these people thought at the beginning of the war that hostilities might be terminated in a week or two, but as the war dragged on, they found that they could not support themselves in Shanghai where the cost of living is much higher than that in the country. In these circumstances, they are now gradually returning to their own country homes, coming from Shanghai up to Chinkiang by boat and proceeding to their native places by either rail or on boat. As it happened, however, that the troops, who had hitherto been stationed in Quinsan, were despatched to the front at Ishing, the people in Soochow, Wusih, and Changchow have once again begun to entertain apprehensions about the result of fighting at the fronts, supposing that Soochow may shortly be captured by the Chekiang troops, and are now finding their way into Chinkiang by train.

On September 19 the Soochow station was crowded with refugees who were greatly terrified to see that a large number of Kiangsu troops were being transported from Quinsan to Wusih with the apprehensions that they had been defeated. In consequence, departures and arrivals of trains were for a time rendered quite irregular, only one train being scarcely able to depart from Soochow station on the afternoon of the following day. The confusion and disorder there was absolutely beyond description.

It seems to be true that the death roll and the number of casualties on the part of the Kiangsu troops are much larger than are generally figured by the Chekiang side. A well-informed Chinese with whom the writer has made acquaintance here says that the 2nd Kiangsu Division under the command of General Chu Hsi has been well-nigh annihilated, for there remains only about one regiment out of approximately 10,000 men of the Division. It is also reported that the 6th Division of Nanking has suffered casualties of about one-third of the whole division. At present, upward of 1,000 wounded are being cared for in the Red Cross hospitals in Soochow alone and thousands more have been taken to the hospitals in Wusih, Changchow and Nanking. The death-rate of the wounded is said to be about 60 percent. and this is largely due to the rough manner in which the wounded have been handled.

Russian Laborer Says They Are Well-Treated

A Russian is alleged to be authority for the statement made yesterday that of the 250 Russians engaged by the Chekiang-Shanghai allied forces, only ten are employed as gunners. Those serving in the infantry are paid $8 a day and receive their wages at the end of each day. The report made states that the condition of the Russians at the front is much better than that of those in Shanghai.

Cruiser Haichow Is Now Flying Kiangsu Colors

According to a report last night, the Cruiser Haichow, the pride of the Shanghai Independent Navy, has definitely cast her lot with the Kiangsu Navy and is now stationed in Liuho waters in the company of Admiral Tu Shih-kwei's fleet.

One of the torpedo boats which left Shanghai with the cruiser, however, returned to Shanghai yesterday.

China's Troubles Are Not Peculiar, Says Mr. Pratt At Union Club Tiffin

British Consul-General Asserts That Out Of Present Chaos Will Dawn A Period Of Improvements When Everybody Would Benefit

That the troubles through which China is now passing, are not peculiar to China, was the contention of Mr. J. T. Pratt, C. M. G., British Consul-General at Shanghai, in an address delivered at the monthly fellowship luncheon at the Union Club yesterday. "In England we have our political problems and our abuses and we work and strive to improve conditions, just as the people of China are now doing," said Mr. Pratt. "In England and in other countries merchants have their troubles and when we come to the Orient we continue our fight against things which we consider to be wrong. Chinese merchants are likely to think that the foreign merchants are somewhat impatient when they agitate against certain conditions, but when we analyse the matter we find that the views of foreign merchants and Chinese merchants are largely similar. We are all working for similar ends—to improve conditions—and if we would all work together improvements would come about sooner and everybody would benefit."

Mr. Pratt expressed his appreciation of the opportunity to meet the members of the Union Club of China and spoke enthusiastically of the opportunity which the Union Club presents for bringing together the different nationalities in Shanghai for comparing notes and bringing about better relations not only in trade but in affairs generally.

The luncheon yesterday was the first of the fellowship series this fall which the Union Club started last year, the luncheons having been discontinued during the summer season. Mr. V. G. Lyman, chairman of the Club presided, and there were approximately fifty members and their guests present. Among the guests were Mr. Peter B. Kyne the American writer who is now visiting in Shanghai and Mr. G. Bertram Mitchell of New York, prominent artist and writer who is also visiting here for a few days before proceeding to Hongkong and Manila prior to his return to America. Mr Lyman announced at the meeting that the fellowship luncheons would be continued during the fall and winter and promised an interesting program on each occasion.

Chekiang Army Re-Parcels Commanding Officers After Retreat Of Ishing Forces

Anti-Aircraft Guns And Ammunition Shipped Back From Taihu Theater Are Re-distributed Along Huangtu-Liuho Front

BY TALBOT PATRICK

Further re-enforcements for the Huangtu-Kiating sector of the Shanghai (ex-Chekiang) army yesterday were marked by the interesting accompaniment of General Chen Loh-san and his whole staff. This new commander on the railway part of the line, together with movements of other generals the past two or three days suggest evidence of a re-parceling of commanding officers and of sections of the front because of the retreat here of former Tuchun Lu and his men from the Ishing neighborhood.

What reactions and far-reaching results may come from such shifting offers an interesting subject to the speculative. It is certain that there is plenty of chance for rubbing the fur the wrong way between the officers who were previously directly under General Ho Feng-lin and the newer comers

In fact, a great deal of tact, not to say heavy diplomacy, might seem under the circumstances necessary between the two yamens of Ho and Lu. It is true that Ho became Defense Commissioner of Sungkiang and Shanghai as Lu's man, after the latter had been promoted from the commissionership to the position of tuchun of Chekiang. But matters changed a bit after that.

Some months ago Ho is known to have referred to himself as governor of the Shanghai area, a term referring to a man independent of any allegiance save the nominal or occasional one to the Central Government.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS

A natural sequel to this attitude was a feeling that in the present war General Ho took part as an ally rather than as a subordinate of Lu.

All well and good, until one ally with "all his horses and all his men" finds cause to join the other in the latter's territory. Which phrase reminds one that

Canton Confirms Report Of Chen Chiung-Ming's Return To The Capital

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 18.—That General Chen Chiung-ming is making his way back to the Kwangtung capital has been confirmed by the Kuomintang Government in Canton. The Kuomintang organs, however, deny the success of General Chen's forces.

So far no extensive military operations along the East River districts in Kwangtung are imminent. It appears that both sides are preparing for a decisive battle. Dr. Sun's mercenaries in these districts are concentrating at Sheklung, withdrawing from Poklo and other places, and reinforcements are being despatched to Sheklung to guard against the possible return of General Chen.

The leading Canton merchant organisations have decided to ignore the request of the Kuomintang for $3,000,000 to enable Dr. Sun to carry out his northern expedition. The merchants say that the expedition is not of national interest but of a factional nature, one clique of militarists fighting against another. Moreover, they have submitted to sufficient oppression without subjecting themselves to another forced loan of $3,000,000.

The commandants of the Canton Volunteer Corps having circulated their telegrams supporting Dr. Sun Yat-sen as required by the terms of settlement for the release of the arms seized by the authorities, Dr. Sun now calls for more from the volunteers before he will order the actual release of the consignment. What the Kuomintang want is the reorganisation of the volunteer movement completely under Dr. Sun's control, which would give the party a regular army without their having to support and finance it.

It is understood that the volunteers, having lost patience, have given notice that they will not submit to the continued holding of their arms any longer and will take action if the consignment is not returned soon.

The press gang in Canton has been revived.

YUNNAN CONSUL DENIES REPORT OF TANG'S DEATH

Report Of Assassination Of Southern Leader Is Definitely Refuted

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 22.—In connection with the report that General Tang Chi-yao, Tuchun of Yunnan, was assassinated on the 18th instant, Mr. Kasuya, Japanese Consul in Yunnanfu, has wired to the Foreign Office, reporting that he personally interviewed General Tang Chi-yao on the 19th instant.

GERMANY WILL JOIN LEAGUE AS BIG POWER

Official Announcement Made By Berlin Of Her Intention To Enter

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Sept. 23.—It is officially announced that Germany will shortly endeavour to enter the League of Nations on the footing of a Big Power.

The announcement was made at the close of the Cabinet meeting, presided over by President Ebert. After stating that the decision to secure entry into the League had been unanimous, it proceeds:

"The Government's standpoint is prompted by the consideration that questions dealt with by the League of Nations, especially the protection of minorities, the regulation of conditions in the Saar, the question of general disarmament in connection with the carrying out of military control and the paramount question of safety and peaceful cooperation of nations, can only be solved satisfactorily with Germany's collaboration which could, of course, only be that of a Great Power on an equal footing with other nations."

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 23.—Well-informed circles deny the rumor that direct negotiations have been going on between Paris and Berlin concerning Germany's admission into the League of Nations.

In that connection Le Matin says that M. Herriot received yesterday the British Ambassador and then consulted by telephone the French Delegation at Geneva, which conferred on the matter twice under the presidency of the ex-Premier, M. Briand.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 23.—A message from Geneva states that the Norwegian delegate, Dr. Nansen, questioned the French delegates as to their attitude in the event of Germany applying for admission into the League of Nations, and that M. Briand replied that the question concerned the Governments alone and an answer should be sought in Paris, London and Berlin. The ex-Premier added that there was no reason whatever to modify the view given to the League on September 5 by M. Herriot that the admission of Germany would have to be subject to the common rule, without any privilege or exception.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Sept. 23.—Speaking at a reception to representatives of German Chambers of Commerce abroad, President Ebert emphasised that every German abroad was under an obligation to show by his conduct that Germany was today justified in claiming the confidence which was necessary to alleviate the heavy task involved in the execution of the London Agreement. The fulfilment of her obligations necessitated Germany's re-participation in the world's trade.

Dr. Streseman, the Foreign Minister, said that Germany had accepted the London Agreement in order to provide a sound basis of economic life. The cooperation of Germans abroad was necessary to enable Germany to shoulder her burdens.

LULL ON FRONT EXCEPT LIUHO; COLONEL SHOT FOR LOOTING HUCHOW

Feverish Preparations For Big Drive Made By Kiangsu, Lunghua Hears; Irregular Service Of Passenger Trains Maintained Along S.H.R. As Far As Sunkiang

Yesterday's war situation at a glance:

No serious fighting was staged at either Huangtu or Tsingpu although Kiangsu forces launched an attack on Liuho last night.

Colonel Li Ting-mei, in command of the 28th regiment, which looted Huchow when the troops retreated from the Ishing sector, was executed at Lunghua yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

General Pan Kuo-kan, whose retreat from the Fukien border, caused the removal of the Chekiang Headquarters from Hangchow to Shanghai, is expected to arrive in Lunghua today.

According to intelligence reports received at Lunghua, Kiangsu is throwing every available soldier into the battlefield for a fresh attempt to break through the Chekiang line of defence and feverish preparations are being made by the Hupeh, Honan and Shantung troops who have been rushed to Quinsan.

LIUHO ASSAULT IS RESUMED BY KIANGSU MEN

Another Attack Launched Last Night After Lull During Day

BY D. J. LEWIS

Lootien, September 24, 8 p.m.—Severe fighting took place at 2 a.m. this morning at Tsi Pang Chao a small village outside of the east gate of Kading and some 16 li from Lootien. It is evidently the purpose of the Kiangsu troops to try to force their way through at this point. They proceed by canal and native road to Lootien and cut the motor-road communications with Liuho. A force of 500 Chekiang troops is entrenched west of Lootien to protect the Shanghai-Liuho road.

At 7 p.m. telephone report was received from Liuho that the Kiangsu forces have commenced another attack on the town.

From reports received from a native of Zu Kiao Chao (6 li from Liuho) today the Chekiang front line positions on the Liuho sector remain practically the same as last week. Several units of Chekiang forces formerly engaged on the Ishing front are now stationed along the Liuho front.

Colonel Cheng Jih-cheng passed through Lootien at 7:30 p.m. enroute to Liuho to consult with Col. Chang Yi-sheng.

The bridges on the Liuho road are beginning to show signs of the heavy traffic which has passed on the road during the past few weeks. A company of engineers was observed replacing worn out timbers.

The military restrictions at Lootien are becoming more severe. no residents of the town are allowed to leave after nightfall. The shops owing to the large number of troops have been closed for several days. Orders have been issued by the military officials that the local gentry use their influence to have the shops opened immediately. The American missionary chapel at Lootien remains unmolested, no soldiers being quartered in the compound.

As a result of the dynamiting of Bridges 71 and 78 along the Hangchow line, Kashing and Kashan became panic-stricken. Looting by bandits was reported in Kashing where all the shops were closed. No garrison was stationed in Kashing, following General Lu Yung-hsiang's consolidation of his position in the Shanghai-Sungkiang Area.

Four scouting machines of the Chekiang Army circled over Huangtu, Liuho, Kiating and Tsingpu yesterday morning. They returned to Lunghua at noon.

Sun Chuan-fang, new Tuli of Chekiang, is still in Chuchow, while the vanguards under Lu Shan-ting and Meng Chao-yu are proceeding to Hangchow. One of the brigade under Meng has already arrived in Sankou.

After the retreat of Chekiang forces on the Taihu theater of war, the forces of Chen Tiao-yuan have occupied Changshing without fighting.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin is once more outlawed by a Presidential Mandate issued in Peking.

All the forces of General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian General, and General Wang Huai-ching, Inspector-General of Jehol, Suiyuan and Chahar, which used to garrison Peking, have left for the front. Wu Pei-fu's own third division is stationed in Fengtai and will be despatched to Shanhaikwan only in case of emergency.

Troops on the Huangtu front took a complete rest yesterday. However, following a meeting of General Lu's war council in Lunghua, it was decided to assume the offensive today, General Chen Yao-shan's 13th, 14th and 16th regiments of infantry and another regiment of artillery were despatched to Nanziang yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

An army of 15,000 Honan and Kiangsu forces under Chen Tiao-yuan, Pei Pao-shan and Chao King-chen is massed at Tsingpu for a new assault. The Chekiang garrison consists of a regiment of the tenth division, two battalions of the 20th mixed brigade and one battalion of the sixth mixed brigade. These were reinforced yesterday by three regiments of General Chen Yao-shan's troops.

At Liuho, the Nanking troops assaulted at 2 o'clock and continued till 4:30 yesterday morning. Two Chekiang soldiers were killed and three wounded. The Kiangsu casualties numbered more than a dozen. Fighting was resumed at 7 o'clock last night.

Two trains were despatched on the Hangchow line as far as Sungkiang yesterday as a result of the wrecking of Bridges No. 71 and 78. An unconfirmed report says that several other bridges along the Hangchow railway were wrecked on the other side of Kashing yesterday.

Thirty-four wounded were brought back from Liuho and Huangtu yesterday by the Chinese Red Cross. Thirty were from Huangtu and the other from Liuho. Only five or six were severely wounded.

ZAGHLUL PASHA IN LONDON TO SEE MR. MACDONALD

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 23.—Zaghlul Pasha, the Egyptian Premier, who left Paris today for London, said that his two month's stay in Paris had been most agreeable and profitable and expressed gratitude for the attentions paid to him by his French friends.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 23.—A picturesque demonstration took place at Victoria Station this afternoon on the occasion of the arrival of Zaghlul Pasha to confer with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald with a view to negotiations for a settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian question.

The station approaches were lined with spectators. The platform was crowded with cheering Egyptians and Indians displaying green and white rosettes and flags, which are the new Egyptian colors.

ways been in favor of peace "However," he continued, "Kiangsu started the hostilities and Tsao Kun should be regarded as the chief culprit. If there is a sincere wish for peace you should first endeavor to remove all the obstacles to peace. If I should today stop fighting it might mean that the people would surrender to Tsao Kun. Until the national traitors are first eradicated there can be no peace."

In conclusion, General Lu said he was willing to act according to the wishes of his petitioners but they must first deal with the traitors.

PRISONERS TO WORK AS WAR LABORERS

Inability of the Nanking authorities to recruit coolies in sufficient numbers to satisfy the demands of the military chiefs has resulted in their releasing all the prisoners in the first jail in Nanking, except those serving time for serious crimes, according to a report from a Chinese source.

The authorities will send the released prisoners to the front to transport military equipment.

It is also reported from Nanking that Sun Cheng-kang who was appointed chief of the Woosung and Shanghai constabulary last year, has secretly left for Shanghai.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 24.—Representatives requested Dr. W. W. Yen, the Premier, to attend the House this afternoon in order to explain the recent arrest of two members, but the members had since been released, and there was no quorum.

M. P. ARRESTED

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 23.—Mr. Peng Kang-huang, an M.P., was arrested the night before last by the military guards on a charge of alleged dealings with General Lu Yung-hsiang. In consequence, the House of Representatives has decided to call an emergency meeting tomorrow, when the M. P.'s will ask Premier W. W. Yen to make an explanation in his respect.

(Eastern News Agency)

Nanking, Sept. 24.—The transportation to Quinsan of the 5th Hupeh Mixed Brigade was completed last night.

Chekiang Reparcels Army Commanders

Humpty Dumpty might in this case be said to have survived a fall off one wall, but that there is only one more to go. Wherefore his adherents will hope there is no cause for skidding—and the neutral person wonders.

To return to the details of warfare from the shiftier grounds of diplomatic surmise: Two anti-aircraft guns were sent up the railway early yesterday morning from Lunghua and how they expend their ammunition the next time Kiangsu airplanes fly over Nanziang and Huangtu is news to be awaited with interest.

Yesterday afternoon General Chen and his complete staff went up. In the afternoon, also, some 1,500 soldiers of the 7th Battalion, 14th Regiment, 4th Mixed Division were sent up from along the Hangchow line to Nanziang. With them there went four 4 inch or 75 mm. field pieces and four machine guns. A supply of ammunition is also reported to have been sent up at the same time.

BOATS AND CARS

Earlier in the day, forty cases of field gun ammunition and about seventy of rifle ammunition were sent to Nanziang from Lunghua and thirty cases for the guns and forty for the rifles from the same place to Liuho. It was said that some of this ammunition had been brought back by the troops from the Ishing front.

Boats from the lines of communications previously maintained toward Ishing and many carriages of the Hangchow-Shanghai railway line have also been concentrated in Shanghai. Many of the soldiers have come here by boat, disembarking near the arsenal and being quartered about it or marched out near Lunghua. No passenger trains, not even locals, have run on the Hangchow line between Shanghai and points this side of Kashing since one train was turned back Tuesday morning.

The coolie depot in Chapei, from which contingents are sent to different parts of the front as wanted, was enlarged today by the addition of more than three score men from Lunghua.

THE BEST JOKE YET

In Chapei, also, is to be found what is suspected to be one of the funniest practical jokes yet perpetrated in the war at Shanghai's back door. The scene is set at the Zu Poh public school in Yung Hsing Road.

Beside the door of the school is a big poster and in the doorway stands one bandmaster style soldier with an imposing pistol. (Our information is that this weapon contains no ammunition and is dangerous for "face pidgin" purposes, only.) The staring inscription on the poster, alluring to the warlike who yet find the front of the Kiangsu troops too near and to the ambitious who consider possible loot at a distance as far more worth while than possible enrollment as coolies at home is, in essence, as follows:

"Recruiting of Soldiers for the first ... fourth division ... against the Tuchun."

Truly, a most delectable poster to the young man who wants to start seeing the world by joining the distant and not-yet-reported-in-danger Canton army. A poster to lead within the door many an earnest young Ulysses of the less hardy sort. Oh for the languorous south!

The recruit enters. Within he finds a score of soldiers in the Chekiang-Shanghai uniform. And rumor hath it that instead of a luxurious trip to the spiced gardens of the south the new soldier takes a swift ride out to the front lines in back of Shanghai.

List Of German Articles Made For French Levy

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 23.—The official Gazette publishes a list of articles which, pursuant to the Law of April 21, 1921, are leviable at the rate of 26 percent ad valorem on all articles of German manufacture imported into France, on and after October 1.

At a Cabinet meeting today, the Minister of Finance made a very complete statement on the budget situation.

JOHN W. DAVIS WILDLY GREETED IN HOME TOWN.

John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee, received a wild greeting when he returned to Clarksburg, W. Va., his home town, to receive the official notification of his nomination. He is shown here in a motor car with Colonel John C. Johnson, Clarksburg's oldest citizen, who, many years ago, taught Mr. Davis the first principles of democracy.

SIMLA ASSEMBLY REPEALS LAW ON ANARCHY CRIME

Bill Is Opposed By Head Of Council Of State

(Reuter's Service)

Simla, Sept. 23.—The Legislative Assembly today, by 71 votes to 40 passed the bill repealing the Criminal Law Amendment Act enacted in 1908 to suppress anarchical crime in Bengal.

Sir Alexander Muddiman, President of the Council of State, opposing the Bill, said that the times were difficult and abnormal. He pointed out that no stage would be left between ordinary law and martial law if the bill was passed.

(Reuter's Service)

Simla, Sept. 23.—Three persons were killed and forty-three injured in a riot which took place between Hindus and Mohammedans at Saharanpur in the United Provinces on the occasion of a Moslem religious procession on Sunday.

The authorities quickly got the situation in hand. A curfew order has been enforced, and gatherings of over five persons forbidden. Mounted police are patrolling the streets.

Chen Chiung-Ming To Return To Canton

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Sept. 23.—The movements of Dr. Sun's expeditionary forces, since their concentration in Shaokwan, have been kept strictly secret, but according to investigations made by a representative of the Eastern News Agency, some 2,000 Kiangsi troops headed by General Li Ming-yang have already advanced as far as the border of Kiangsi Province as the vanguards of the expeditionary forces against the North, while some 4,000 troops commanded by General Chu Pei-teh under the direct control of the Canton Government have been concentrated in the district between Shihshing and Lochang. About 1,000 Honan troops under the command of General Fan Chung-shin are stationed in the vicinity of Shaokwan. The temporary General Headquarters at Shaokwan is being guarded by the troops under General Wu Tien-cheng. It appears, however, that the recent sudden change in the situation between Kiangsu and Chekiang and the activities on the part of all the troops belonging to General Chen Chiung-ming's faction in the region of the East River, coupled with the shortage of military funds, have caused the scheme for the despatch of the expeditionary forces against the North to come to grief. Rumor is rife here that for the reason abovementioned, Dr. Sun will shortly return to Canton, postponing his expedition against the North for the time being.

JAPAN ALSO MAKES RESERVATION ON ARMS PROTOCOL

League Circles Say That Tokio Does Not Favor Pact

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 23.—The First Committee discussed the arbitration and disarmament draft protocol today.

Mr. Adatchi (Japan) explained that he was obliged to reserve his attitude owing to the non-receipt of definite instructions from Tokio.

It is freely stated in League circles that Japan generally does not favor the protocol, especially the clauses dealing with arbitration and sanctions.

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 23.—Mr. Arthur Henderson's precise statement dispelled the misgivings as regards the use of the British Fleet. A further point of Mr. Henderson's declaration deserves special mention; referring to the part the Council of the League of Nations may be called upon to play in the matter of sanctions, Mr. Henderson declared that there was no idea and never had been any idea of placing troops or ships at the disposal of the Council to use as it thought fit. There was no intention whatever, he said, of converting the Council of the League into a Council of War and of imposing on it the burden of conducting military campaigns or naval operations.

(French Wireless Through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 23.—The Assembly continued its discussions on various reports which had been presented by various sub-committees.

The Assembly recommended that a meeting of experts should be called for the purpose of studying the problem of the protection of scientific appliances and instruments in time of war.

Two Killed At Street Accidents

Two street accidents which occurred a couple of days ago resulted fatally yesterday. An aged Chinese woman who fell in the street while attempting to board a tramcar in motion and was struck by the trailer, died yesterday in the Shantung Road hospital. A young boy, 17, also died in this hospital, of concussion of the brain resulting from his being knocked down by a motor car owned by the Lee and Lee garage and operated by one of their chauffeurs. According to the driver, he was proceeding along Nanking Road, in an easterly direction, at a fair rate of speed, when the boy ran across the street, directly in the path of the car. Although the chauffeur stated that he blew his horn he said the boy paid no attention to it and he could not avoid running him down. Both bodies were taken to the mortuary, pending an inquest.

PRESIDENT VAN BUREN HERE; TO SAIL ON FRIDAY

Dollar-Round-The-World Liner Will Leave For Hongkong With Many Passengers

The President Van Buren of the Dollar-round-the-world steamship service arrived in Shanghai early last Tuesday morning with fourteen first class passengers for Shanghai and a full list bound for ports south as well as several passengers destined for the trip around the world. Among those arriving in Shanghai were Mr. O. G. Steen of the Dollar Company who has been on a trip to Japan, Miss Lillian May Wilkinson of the American Consulate who has been home on vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sia who are on their way to Peking to join the Peking Union Medical College. Dr. Sia is a Chinese physician and surgeon of note who has been in America doing graduate work. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Meagher, of Australia were also on board and after a stop here will proceed on the next Dollar steamer to Hongkong where they will visit for a time before proceeding to their home.

Among the through passengers on board the Van Buren are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Newell who are taking a trip around the world. Mr. Newell is a retired banker of California. Mr. Arthur Woods, a sugar manufacturer of Manila was also on board and in addition there is listed among the passengers Miss Mary Kennedy who visited in Shanghai a year ago but who is now proceeding to India where she is to be married to Mr. Richard Hutchinson, formerly of Shanghai.

The Van Buren will depart from Shanghai Friday morning with a full list of passengers for points south including Mr. Marmount of the Italian Bank, Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Kyne, and secretary Miss Irene Holden who have been visiting here for several days. Mr. Kyne is the well known American short-story writer and novelist and he and Mrs. Kyne and their secretary are proceeding to Paris. Many of the passengers on the ship intended taking the rail trip to Peking or the trip by boat up the Yangtsze, but were prevented on account of the war.

The list of passengers leaving the ship at Shanghai and those in transit are:

For Shanghai—Miss Frances Culley, Mrs. Sarah Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Meagher, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Overholt, and child, Misses Freida Reiman, Ruth Sewall, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Sia, Mr. O. G. Steen, Dr. Hyla Watters and Miss Lillian May Wilkinson.

In transit for Oriental and European ports—Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Applegate, Mrs. Velma Beebe, Miss Ruth Bibler, Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Collier, Miss Merle Danque, Mr. Wallace Hill, Mr. Edward Hodges, Dr. and Mrs. James Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. O. Jorg, Miss Cecelia Kays, Miss Mary Kennedy, Mr. William Langley, Mr. Eduarde Lieret, Mrs. Maria Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Newell, Mr. Werner Reist, Miss Flora Settles, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Smith, Miss Florence Swan, Mr. Arthur Woods, and Mrs. Edna Richardson.

Chang Repudiates Sino-Russ Pact But Favors Own

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Sept. 23.—Marshal Chang Tso-lin is quoted by a well-informed source as saying that he did not recognise the Russo-Chinese Agreement signed in Peking but his agreement with the Soviet (which recognises that article of the Russo-Chinese Agreement relating to the Chinese Eastern Railway) was much more advantageous.

HITTING BELOW THE BELT

We have received an anonymous letter which is apparently deliberately designed to damage the business of a local resident. Such methods are most strongly deprecated in all civilized countries, it being understood how difficult and expensive a process it is to run down the perpetrator (or perpetrators) and make him suffer the consequences of his action. Damage may be wrongfully done by such letters which it would be impossible for any court decision to rectify, whereas if the writer has a just cause of complaint he has his remedy at law without any hindrance whatever. We are sure that other residents of Shanghai who may receive copies of this letter will promptly consign them to the waste paper basket.

From "The Shanghai Sunday Times"

What is your opinion of competitors who will stoop to such methods?

The Chinese Post Office for some reason has forbidden the sale of Postal Maps. According to a correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS in Nanking, the action apparently was taken by the military for the purpose, it is assumed, of preventing persons from following the course of the fighting in the internal civil war. "This should give you an interesting sidelight on the way the military are operating," was our Correspondent's comment on this subject.

S. Destroyer Preeble. Commander Kingnel as soon as the fire was reported came alongside and soon had a hose on the fire. Captain Johnstone of the Edmore as well as the crew of that ship also did excellent work in fighting the flames before the arrival of the Shanghai Fire Department under chief officer Pett. About 2,400 bags of flour and a quantity of dunnage was damaged by water. Just before the fire was extinguished Mr. J. G. Shaw sub-officer of the Shanghai Fire Brigade was injured by being struck in the eye by the nozzle of a fire hose and had to be sent to the hospital for treatment.

The following dealing with the Manchurian export trade appeared in the Russian New Life yesterday. Civil War in China is naturally bad because it affects the Manchurian Export In particular. South Route via Dairen with its comparatively large export circulation, now is threatened by full confusion. In the course of last week there was considerable delay in moving of goods from South and at the same time, not only goods but also Way Bills for them arrived with a long delay. As for example, some Way Bills for goods exported from Dairen on the 2nd September, were received at Harbin only on the 16th inst. In normal times they arrived there generally in 5-6 days after exportation of goods. Interruption and delay in telegraph and mail communication of South direction deprive all possibilities for Exporters to obtain information about the fate of their goods and such a condition excites doubts in their hearts and provokes an alarm between them. At the same time, owing to the difficult state of Export transportation, Insurance Companies have increased their rates by 30 percent. Now some of the Exporters raised a question to send some people to the most important stations on the South Route to investigate the condition on the spot to learn whether they can continue the Export of goods via Dairen or not and what measures are to be taken to insure shipments of goods.

An odd scene is reported from the Tientsin railway, where about 20 lads had been seized by the military and put on board a train at Tientsin East as recruits. The train was passing the oil tanks with customary slackened speed, when the whole gang of recruits leapt from the truck and ran off as fast as their legs would carry them. Their escort stopped the train, as the military do when they please, and chased after the runaways, but brought back only one of them. Public sympathies were entirely on the side of the fugitives, whose average age was about 19, reports the N. C. D. Mail.

Wade And Mansel Smith Become Tennis Doubles Champions Of Shanghai

Excellent Contests With Japanese Stars Hisae And Noguchi; Singles Contests Now On

The Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association's Open Doubles Championship was won by J. L. Wade and W. Mansel-Smith yesterday afternoon in four sets of excellent playing with the Japanese stars Noguchi and Hisae. It was high-class tennis, and both teams were in fine form.

The first sets were closely contested, and Wade and Mansel-Smith had a hard struggle with the Japanese players. Mansel-Smith's excellent serving was one of the fine features, and his height gave him a distinct advantage. In general, the team had an advantage in this latter respect, which the Japanese pair had to overcome by greater speed and quickness while the ball was in play, and for a while the latter succeeded.

The first set was won by Wade and Mansel-Smith, six games to four. Both teams showed speed and cleverness, but the winners' serving, and some very good lobs, won them the set.

The second set was an exciting contest which lasted twice the ordinary number of games, twenty being played in all. The two teams, splendidly matched, fought out one set after another, the Europeans having a shade in the serving but the Japanese making up for this by their quickness and cleverness. At the end of ten games the teams stood 5-5, following which two more sets were divided. Two more were also divided, and this continued until, with the score 9-9, Hisae served and won their tenth set, the Japanese following this up by winning their eleventh also, Wade serving. This was one of the closest and best contests ever seen on the grounds here, and the Japanese fully earned their victory.

This burst, however, appears to have tired the Japanese players somewhat, as the game they were playing, depending upon their speed to overcome the other advantages of their opponents, worked more seriously upon them than upon Wade and Mansel-Smith. The third set was won handily by six games to three, and in the fourth the Japanese, though retaining considerable quickness and cleverness, were unable to keep up the pace and were quite outplayed, losing by six games to one.

There were some excellent flashes of play from the Japanese the last couple of sets, but on the whole it appeared that their early efforts had tired them, and they were no match for the others, who had the better of them in serving, in lobbing, and in the variety of their strokes. Wade and Mansel-Smith are Shanghai's Doubles Champions for this year, a title to which their splendid playing fully entitles them.

The results of the Singles Championship to date are as follows:

1st Round—A. V. White beat S. Nakajima 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0; T. W. Sturton beat H. Midzuta; J. L. Wade beat V. Krass 6-2, 6-0, 6-3; B. Khrenoff beat R. Robarts 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2; T. G. Main beat L. Goulmy; G. Norris beat B. L. Cheetham 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

2nd Round: Tang w.o. H. Toussaint, T. Nakagome beat L. Puthod 6-1, 6-1, 6-2; C. L. Romar beat H. Collaco 6-3, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5; P. H. Klimanek beat E. Kelhofer 6-4, 6-4, 11-9; Y. Kuwabara beat E. Moller 6-4, 6-2, 7-5; C. E. Whitamore beat G. H. Bartlett 6-1, 6-2, 6-2; K. Witkowsky w.o. E. Ott.

Competitors are asked to note that the third round of the Singles Championship must be concluded by Sunday next and the results sent into the Hon. Sec. without delay.

On Monday next and following days all matches will be played at the Majestic Hotel, the matches for each day being notified as provided in the Rules.

Entries will be called very shortly for the Ladies' Singles Championship of Shanghai, which will commence about October 1.

Wills, Dempsey, And Ring Battles Of Other Days

With Harry Wills' decisive victory over Firpo, it is only a question of months, in all probability, before the big negro will be matched with Dempsey, for the world's championship. Wills is fully entitled to meet the champ, whose refusal to fight the negro now would cast serious doubts upon his own right to the title. Who will win in case they are matched is however a question. Champions come and go, but the game goes on forever. During the past generation many of these championship fights have been fought, and the great giants of the ring have risen to the heights of fame only to be humbled to the dust by another, also smashing his way to the top.

EPIC BATTLES

While waiting for the new answer to the old question as to the world's greatest fighting man, the minds of millions will be carried back over the years to the days when Peter Jackson and Frank Slavin, Jim Corbett and John L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson and Tommy Burns, Dempsey and Carpentier, and other great ones of the heavy-weight ring fought with each other and added richer pages to its immortal history.

The temptation to recall some of these epic fights between the "Emperors of Pugilism," as Byron wrote of them in his diary in 1913, is irresistible.

Once you start there is hardly a page that will not hold you in thrall, whether the story deals with the old champions of the London prize ring, when men fought with bare knuckles, usually for hours at a time, or with the newer school that came into being when John L. Sullivan introduced the big gloves and the Marquess of Queensberry framed his famous code that now, with little modification, governs ring battles the world over.

BOB FITZSIMMONS' FIGHTS

Some of the present generation of fight fans still remember the battle for the Heavy-Weight Championship of the World between Fitzsimmons and Corbett at Carson City, Nevada, nearly 30 years ago, when the lank Cornishman gave "Pompadour Jim," then at the height of his fame, and undoubtedly one of the cleverest, gamest, and most stylish boxers who ever trod alum, a thrashing second only in its relentlessness and its severity to that administered to him by J. J. Jeffries, the Ohio boilermaker, at San Francisco three years later.

Writing of that battle years afterwards Corbett said:

"I should have played safe with Fitzsimmons and kept away from him until I knew he was beaten, as I did when I fought John L. Sullivan.

"A fighter is foolish to take a chance in a big battle when he knows he can beat his opponent by playing safe. I like clever men in the ring, but the 'cover up' style of today is disgusting and is doing much to hurt the game. I do not call them boxers—they are more like Punch and Judy actors."

Almost a generation afterwards when Fitzsimmons was an old man, I saw him brought out to be butchered by one Bill Lang, a fifth rater whom Tommy Burns was fond of turning into a chopping block, at the Stadium at Rushcutters' Bay, Sydney.

O, Boxing, what things are done in thy name!

Fitzsimmons—the man who was never defeated by the greatest middle-weights and light-heavy-weights of the Golden Age of the Ring—forced at the end of a glorious career to put a few more coppers into a boxing promoter's cash box! The only consolation was that only a few—a very few—hundred looked on at such a degradation.

JEFFRIES' BATTLES

Corbett's great fight with Jeffries at Coney Island went to 23 rounds. Corbett, although heavily outweighted, and nearly ten years older than the boilermaker, then at the peak of his strength and his ferocious hitting power, was easily ahead on points, but there was no respite from the terrible rain of power-weighted blows that Jeffries ceaselessly directed on his body. Corbett described the fight as "awful," adding: "Jim was a powerful fellow and could stand a terrible amount of punishment without flinching."

Jeffries retired, unbeaten, four years afterwards. The tragedy of his attempted "come-back" against Jack Johnson at Reno in 1910 was as disastrous, and almost as pitiable, as Fitzsimmons' effort at Sydney a year previously.

One would have thought that Jeffries would have profited by that lesson, and avoided the smirching of one of the greatest ring careers in boxing history. Jeffries and Fitzsimmons were both dreadful examples of the truth of the saying, "Youth will be served."

A third example is fresh in the memory of many. Who does not recall the exhibition Joe Beckett made of Tommy Burns in London four years ago? Burns, ex-heavy-weight champion of the world, a chopping block for Carpentier's old friend!

JOHNSON AND BURNS

Perhaps the most extraordinary thing about the famous fight at Sydney in 1908 between Burns and Johnson was that when the men went into the ring (it was at 11 o'clock in the morning) the betting was 4 to 1 on Burns. The fight hadn't gone half a round before it was 4 to 1 on Johnson; at the end of the first round you could'nt name the odds on the negro.

For weeks before the fight there had been a lot of bad blood between the men, and, once, nearly a stand-up fight with bare knuckles in the promoter's office. Very foolish and ill-advised was Burns to talk openly of Johnson's "yellow streak" and to taunt the great black fighter, and heap every kind of insult on him both in public and private.

The result was that when Johnson got the French-Canadian into the ring he simply cut him to pieces, giving as good as he got and more when it came to swopping compliments (as well as punches) as the fight went on.

The police stopped that fight in the fourteenth round; they should have stopped it in the fourth.

DEMPSEY AND CARPENTIER

By far the greatest heavy-weight battle of recent years was that at Jersey City between Carpentier and Dempsey, under the management of Tex Rickard, Napoleon of fight promoters, on July 2, 1921.

In actual cash from Rickard Dempsey received £75,000 and Carpentier £50,000—figures which left every other record stone-cold. Dempsey made far more than the money Rickard paid him out of that fight.

His total earnings, it is now well known, exceeded £100,000 a sum which exceeded the aggregate of all the stakes ever received by Jeffries in his long and unbeaten career. "Unbeaten" refers, of course, to the days when he fought Goddard and Peter Jackson, Sharkey and Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Ruhlin. What Jack Johnson did to him when he was an old "has-been" at Reno in 1910 cannot be counted seriously as a fight.

Except for one elemental moment in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight—the second round—when Carpentier put across one of those lightning lefts, staggering the champion and knocking him half-way across the ring. Carpentier never had a chance. He took absolutely murderous, body punishment, and in the end collapsed, a smashed and beaten man. He never recovered his spirit, and was a second-rater from that day.

It would probably be true to say that the three greatest heavy-weight boxers in ring history have been John L. Sullivan, Jim Jeffries, and Jack Dempsey. All three possessed the talisman of champions—a devastating, an irresistible punch that "kills at sight."

CARLTON Roof Garden To-night

BOXING ASS'N'S "AT HOME" AT THE CARLTON TONIGHT

Excellent Bill Of Fare For This Evening's Reception

The Oriental Boxing Association's usual "At Home" will take place at the Carlton tonight. Many reservations have been made, including places for many ladies, and the menu is superlatively good.

The reception is being held on the Roof Garden, and the arrangements reflect credit upon Manager de Tagle. The first item on the bill of fare, the nors d'oeuvres, includes a couple of piquant appetizers known as Hertzberg and Xavier, light but peppery, and calculated to stimulate the palate to something better.

The entree is rather of the ordinary. De Dios and Suzara are the two items here. The quality of the first is well known in this locality, but the second has not appeared on menus here for some time, and most of the guests are not likely to recognise the latter. It appears to be a well-balanced assortment. Chef McKenzie announced a few days ago that the second entree was white meat, but this seems to have been a misunderstanding.

The artistic combination of different colors of meat is reserved for the grill.—the mixed grill, it may be termed. Forral and Keenan are the two excellent items on this part of the menu. The same combination was tried at the Association's reception two weeks ago, and was quite satisfactory. Keenan, however, can give still better satisfaction if a real attempt is made towards a proper trimming.

The dessert is the Association's great speciality in all its receptions. Tomorrow night it will be a hot Philippine mixture which is expected to please the taste of the most fastidious. Garcia and Canion are the important ingredients.

Though these two articles are well known in other combinations, this is the first time they have been mixed together in this way, and there is every reason to believe that the result will be most successful, and will reflect due credit upon the manager and his chef.

BOXING TONIGHT

CURTAIN RAISER

Hans Hertzberg (98 lbs.) vs. Chas. Xavier (95 lbs.) for the paper-weight championship of China. Pretty good youngsters. Four rounds.

SPECIAL EVENT

Syd Keenan (119 lbs.) vs. Benny Forral (117 lbs.). The Filipino is agressive, and will carry the fight to Keenan if the latter hesitates at all about it. Syd has a wonderful defence, and really got the better of Forral two weeks ago, though the bout was adjudged a draw. Eight rounds.

SECOND EVENT

Faustino De Dios (124 lbs.) vs. Joe Suzara (126 lbs.). De Dios is one of the fastest and cleverest boxers here. Suzara, who has fought in Shanghai before, is also good, and is expected to give De Dios a battle. Eight rounds.

MAIN EVENT

Leonardo Garcia (126 lbs.) vs. Rufe Canion (123 lbs.). Garcia is a very clever lad, and in fact the best featherweight in Shanghai at present. Canion is not up to Garcia in cleverness, but he is quick, has a stiffer punch in spite of the difference in weight, and may knock out the bigger boy. Canion has beaten almost everyone in the bantam division here, and is now going after bigger game, though he is likely to find Garcia more than a match for him. The fight is to go twelve rounds.

TROTSKY PREDICTS CHINA'S VICTORY FOR DEMOCRACY

Moscow "Hands Off China" Society Raps Foreign Intervention

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Moscow, Sept. 24.—In a message to the Hands Off China Society, Trotsky predicts victory for Chinese democracy.

A large number of radical advocates for the Hands Off China Movement held a mass meeting yesterday and issued a manifesto, demanding concerted action of international labor against the intervention of foreign powers in China's internal strife. They declared that the foreign powers were pursuing a sinister scheme towards China and suggested that Japan intended to adopt a pseudo-liberal role, which she alleged, the United States had hitherto played.

Russ Economist Asks Cancellation Of Former Debts

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, September 23.—In an article in the Pravda the well-known Russian economist, M. Miliutine dealing with the Anglo-Russian Treaty, says that cancellation of the debts of former Governments is one of the basic principles of the Soviet social system and any demand for a settlement of them represents an attempt to modify that system amounting to interference in the internal affairs of Russia, which the Treaty specifically forbids.

M. Miliutine contends that the British Government, by guaranteeing a loan only in principle, made no economic compensation for the most important concessions by the Soviet. He concludes that the advantages of the Treaty are problematical, and that the time has come to break off completely all negotiations connected with the claims of British financiers

THOUGHT HIS HEART WAS TO BLAME

But It Proved To be His Stomach. Another Former Sufferer From Chronic Indigestion Says

"Thanks To Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I Am Now In Perfect Health."

Lots of people worry themselves with the thought that they have heart trouble when all that is causing their palpitations and pains is pressure of gas in the stomach. The reason for the presence of this gas, or wind, is weak digestion, and as soon as the digestion has been strengthened and restored to normal activity gas no longer forms, pressure is taken off the heart and the sufferer becomes well.

Many men and women who suffered great pain and discomfort have permanently got rid of indigestion by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These cured people are to be found in all parts of the world. For example take the case of Mr. Harry Potter, who lives at 12 Crawford Terrace, Wellington, New Zealand.

"I suffered from Indigestion for years," says Mr. Potter, "and got so bad that I dreaded eating anything. My sleep became broken; I always had a nasty taste in my mouth and my breath became very offensive. I was low-spirited and thin, lost strength and had no colour in my cheeks. Often when out walking the pain caught me and would double me up. I used to imagine my heart was affected as it would palpitate at the slightest exertion.

"I tried many medicines but only got temporary relief until a friend, noticing how ill I was, persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After a few doses of these I began to improve. I felt brighter and began to eat well. Now thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I am in perfect health."

Chemists everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, the world-renowned Blood and Nerve Tonic, also post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8.00 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Societies Score Factories Using Foreign Flags

Chinese shopkeepers and factory owners in Chinese territory who, terrified by the prospects of looting should the soldiery reach the outskirts of Shanghai have resorted to the use of flags of various foreign powers in an attempt to camouflage the Chinese ownership. This has roused the ire of members of the Local Citizens Defense League Against Japanese Diplomacy and the National Products Encouraging Association who yesterday sent the following circular letter to the various factories and shops in the territory under Chinese jurisdiction.

"Since the beginning of hostilities between Chekiang and Kiangsu certain people have spread rumors which have caused much excitement amongst the merchants. Recently, factories and shops in the territory under Chinese jurisdiction have been displaying the flags of America, England, Italy and France. Some have even exhibited the Japanese flag. As this matter is one that affects the dignity of our nation and will not have the effect of saving the places from molestation by the soldiers, we therefore write you this letter to request you not to resort to this practise in order to avoid being laughed at by foreigners."

Hsu Yuan Seeks To Stop Arms Smuggling

Armed robberies have become so commonplace in the Settlement that Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, believing that the only way to check armed robberies is to take drastic measures to stop the importation of arms into the settlement, has requested the local customs superintendent, the chief of police and the river police to pay particular attention to the smuggling of firearms.

Mr. Hsu has also requested the senior consul in Shanghai to write to the foreign consuls and the Shanghai Municipal Council asking them to enforce strict measures against the smuggling of arms. It was learned yesterday that following the receipt of the letter from the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, Consul-General de Rossi called a meeting of the other foreign consuls in Shanghai at which it was decided that in the future if any case of arms smuggling was brought to their notice the person charged would be dealt with according to the law of his country.

A Cliff-Edge Duel for Love

American Writer Avers Roosevelt Had Deal With The Tokio Government

Dr. Dennett Tells Of Secret Compact For Far Eastern Peace; Private Letters Cited; Warning On Russian War

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 15.—Quoting the private letters of Theodore Roosevyelt as his authority, Dr. Tyler Dennett of Washington, D. C., a writer and lecturer on the Orient, told the China Round Table at the Institute of Politics today that President Roosevelt had entered into a secret agreement with the Imperial Japanese Government in 1905 to co-operate with Great Britain and Japan "for the preservation of the peace of the Far East."

The "agreed memorandum," as Dr. Dennett called a document which he said had been "enthusiastically endorsed" by the President after being drawn up by representatives of Mr. Roosevelt and the Japanese Government, also contained a statement that Japan had no intention of trying to take the Philippines away from the United States, and that Mr. Roosevelt's representatives declared that Japan would be justified in establishing a military protectorate over Korea and taking charge of her foreign affairs.

Dr. Dennett also asserted that he had seen a "brief letter" written by President Roosevelt at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese War, in whihh Mr. Roosevelt warned both France and Germany that if they went to the support of Russia, he would go to the support of Japan. In consequence of these two actions by the President, Dr. Dennett went on, the United States during the Roosevelt Administration, was virtually "an unsigned member of the first and second Anglo-Japanese alliances." According to Dr. Dennett, President Roosevelt prevented a world war by his warning to France and Germany.

REVELATIONS CREATE A SENSATION

The Dennett revelations created a sensation among the members of the institute. In a discussion following the address, Dr. Dennett was hailed on one hand as the discoverer of new historical facts of far-reaching importance, while on the other hand he was challenged to produce proof of his assertions. Dr. Dennett replied that he had been working on President Roosevelt's private correspondence for months, and that the documents he referred to were on file in the possession of the Roosevelt family. He said that he had in his possession a photostat copy of the "agreed memorandum."

Dr. Dennett's disclosure of the Roosevelt agreement came at the end of a discourse on American policy toward China. His theme was that the principle of cooperation by the United States with the principal European powers in Chinese affairs was old and deep-seated, had been expressed even in the open-door letters of John Hay, and should be continued.

Reaching the period of 1904 and 1905, Dr. Dennet cited President Roosevelt's attitude at the time of the Russo-Japanese War and the Portsmouth Peace Conference as an example of cooperation, not only in the Far East, but in Europe.

Dr. Dennett went on as follows.

"I have in my possession the photostat of an agreement made on July 29, 1905, the effect of which was to place the United States during the period of the Roosevelt Administration as almost an unsigned member of the second Anglo-Japanese alliance. This agreement took the form of 'an agreed memorandum,' and had the complete endorsement of President Roosevelt. Although it was negotiated through regular diplomatic channels or by a member of the Department of State, the substance of this agreement was as follows:

RELATES CONVERSATIONS ON COMPACT

"In the course of the conversation the American representative of President Roosevelt remarked to the Japanese, 'I suppose that you do not desire to take the Philippine Islands away from us.' The Japanese replied that he was glad to assure the American Government that Japan had no such desire or intention, and that Japan would be best satisfied to see the United States remain in the Philippines and establish and maintain a stable government.

"The Japanese representative then said in substance: 'You realize how difficult it is to preserve the peace of the Far East. There is danger that following the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese War, Korea will lapse again into a condition of anarchy. We are aware of the provision of the American Constitution which makes alliances so difficult, but it seems to us as though it would be possible for the United States to enter into a secret agreement with Japan and England for the preservation of the peace of the Far East."

"The American replied that under our Constitution such a secret agreement would be 'impossible. However, he thought he could assure the Japanese Government that the American people would be glad to act with the Japanese and British people for the preservation of the peace of the Far East.

"The Japanese representative then inquired of the American representative what, in his opinion, Japan should do with reference to Korea. The American replied that in his judgment Japan would be fully justified in establishing a military protectorate over Korea and in taking charge of her foreign relations.

CITES WARNING TO GERMANY AND FRANCE

"This document was approved by President Roosevelt only twelve days before the formal publication of the terms of the second Anglo-Japanese alliance, and two weeks before the opening of the Portsmouth Peace Conference. This action of President Roosevelt did not stand alone.

"At the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese War, eighteen months before, President Roosevelt had been so impressed with the possibility that France or Germany, or both, might go to the support of Russia against Japan that, according to his own statement, in a brief letter which I have seen, he warned both Germany and France that if they went to the support of Russia he would go to the support of Japan and 'take whatever steps necessary for her protection.'"

"It will be recalled that in the first Anglo-Japanese alliance, signed in 1902, this was the obligation which had been assumed by England. We may, therefore, say that this warning, which came personally from President Roosevelt to France and Germany, had only the value which attaches to the personal declaration of the President of the United States. Nevertheless, the effect of it was to make the United States assume substantially the same reponsibility toward Japan which England had assumed in the first alliance.

"Putting together these two actions of President Roosevelt, we may see roughly that the United States during Roosevelt's administration was, so far as the action of the President could make it, an unsigned member of both first and second Anglo-Japanese Alliances. The obligation was, of course, not binding on other administrations and was in fact ignored by President Taft and Secretary Knox in the proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways in 1910.

"This action on the part of President Roosevelt would appear to have very great significance in any study of recent foreign policy of the United States. President Roosevelt was perhaps the first American statesman, certainly the first since Seward, to perceive clearly that the Far East question is largely a phase of European politics.

ROOSEVELT AND EUROPE

The Russo-Japanese war has its origin quite as much in Europe as in the East. President

HIS LATEST TWO-REEL TRIUMPH

Roosevelt appears to have realized that the most certain way to safeguard American interests in the Far East was to enter European policies and declare American willingness to bear its full share of responsibility for the preservation of the peace, not merely of the Far East, but of Europe and the world.

"At the beginning of 1904, as is clearly revealed in the private papers of President Roosevelt, as well as in the contemporary literature of the time, Europe was dangerously close to the brink of a world war. France was allied to Russia, England was allied to Japan. Four powers were paired. Germany had urged Russia into the war with Japan, and her future policy was then a matter of doubt and grave concern.

"When President Roosevelt threw in the weight of his influence by his warning to France and Germany, he localized the conflict in the Far East and quite possibly prevented the outbreak of a European conflict. It would therefore appear that the policy of cooperation with foreign relations in international affairs cannot be called a partisan policy. It is one which has been as ardently advocated by Republican as by Democratic leaders.

"Indeed, we may wonder whether in years to come it will not be regarded as Roosevelt's greatest contribution to American statesmanship that he so perceived the necessity of American participation in European politics. The situation in the summer of 1905 is such as to make make it seem quite plausible that if President Roosevelt had not made this engagment with Japan and England it would have been far more difficult and perhaps impossible for him to mediate the later."

Dr. Dennet said that the United States should continue to follow a policy of cooperation. Any lapse into isolation in the future, he said, would mean that we would have to fight or retire from the field. Unless America cooperates, he said, the time may come when China will be closed against our trade, which would mean an industrial depression in this country.

Dr. Dennet admitted that the Roosevelt policy was open to

DISARMAMENT

There was another debate on disarmament today at the open conference on "Disarmament and Security," led by Professor James T. Shotwell of the history department of Columbia University, and David Hunter Miller, the New York lawyer, who helped draft the covenant of the League of Nations.

Professor Shotwell distributed to the 225 members of the Institute copies of the proposed American plan for disarmament proposed by ten Americans, none holding any official position, which is to come up before the Assembly of the League of Nations next month. Besides Professor Shotwell and Mr. Miller, the American drafters of the plan are General Tasker H. Bliss, retired, who was American representative on the Supreme War Council; Dr. Isaiah Bowman, executive head of the technical experts of the American delegation at the Peace Conference; Dr. Joseph Chamberlain, Professor of International Law at Columbia; Professor John Bates Clark, former director of the division of Economic and History of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, Director of the Institute of International Eucation of the Carnegie Foundation; General James G. Harbord, retired, former Chief of Staff of the American Army; Dr. F. P. Keppel, former Assistant Secretary of War, and Dr. Henry S. P. Pritchett, President of the Carnegie Foundation.

"The problems of peace and disarmament," Professor Shotwell said, "are continuous ones. New dangers are on the horizon all the time. The continuing nature of the problem is met in the American plan by the erection of a Permanent Advisory Council, which is to be a sort of world parliament on disarmament, meeting at least once every three years. Its permanent organization forms a sort of general staff of military men for peace—to study the general problem of disarmament—a thing which the world has hitherto lacked.

"The need of this can be seen from the disputes following the Washington conference. Had there been a permanent body to which the technical staffs could refer, these disputes would not have got into the atmosphere of politics with their dangerous, even sinister, implications.

PERMITS TREATIES OF DEFENSE

"Most of the problems of disarmament are highly technical, although they seem so simple. You can get a good idea of how complicated they are by looking at the parallel organization for international labor legislation, which spent a whole year investigating the laws of all countries in order to define what an eight-hour day is; and that is infinitely simpler than to define the place of chemistry in warfare.

"But perhaps even more important is the fact that with this organization nations can enter into limited treaties of defense such as France has signed since the Treaty of Versailles, and yet not involve Europe in the old balance of power theory. For the balance of power led to war, mainly through the suspicion of either side that the other was arming. The American draft treaty finally accepts the French claim that the world is not likely for some time to get along without special treaties of defense between nations with a common danger. This French part of the League treaty was one of the things the British Government objected to.

"Theoretically, however, the framers of the treaty believe the principle is sound if it can be robbed of the element of suspicion. Now the only way to do that is by public diplomacy. The only way to get real publicity in diplomacy is to make the reward for it greater than you can possibly get by secrecy, and the only such reward will be greater security.

FRENCH PROPOSAL DESCRIBED

"Colonel Requin, the French military expert, has offered an entirely novel suggestion for solving this problem—a suggestion which apparently has the backing of the French Government—namely, that those treaties the terms of which are known and registered with the League of Nations can be carried out as far as they go automatically and immediately, so that the moment of danger they do not wait for court or council or anything else. But on the other hand, in return for having this privileged class of Treaty recognized, the same powers would bind themselves to take all other cases through the machinery of the League of Nations.

"In a word, as the murder of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand was not foreseen in any treaty between Germany and Austria, Austria would have been obliged by these provisions to take the case through the machinery of the League. But had Germany or Austria been attacked, they could have moved automatically without reference to the League."

Professor Shotwell said that suspicion was one of the causes of the World War, when Kaiser Wilhelm and Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria had their famous conference shortly before the outbreak of the war, he went on, they discussed chiefly harmless things, but suspicion of their motives resulted in a report reaching "the spies's quarter" of the Russian General Staff in St. Petersburg that they had plotted war in order to conquer and divide Europe.

WHY FERDINAND WAS ASSASSINATED

"The head of the Russian General Staff," he said, "telegraphed this news to the head of the Serbian General Staff, who happened also to be head of the Black Hand in Serbia, and who in the latter capacity, had the Archduke assassinated."

In the discussion which followed Professor Shotwell's address, Rear Admiral H. P. Jones, retired, insisted on the use of "limitation" or "reduction" of armament instead of disarmament. He said that the use of "disarmament" was dangerous because so many people in this country interpreted it as meaning the complete taking away of armament. Professor Shotwell said he agreed and would make the distinction clear in future conferences.

J. W. Slaughter of Texas asked if the formation of partial treaties among Latin-American States would not be contrary to the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine, on the ground that the Monroe Doctrine should assist toward the security of one Latin-American nation against aggression from others.

Mr. Miller replied that there was nothing in the Monroe Doctrine to afford a guarantee to one Latin-American country against another. As to partial treaties in general, Mr. Miller said that it was necessary in drafting any disarmament plan to face the fact that such treaties existed and could not be prevented, but might be limited.

Charles B. Fernald of New York City questioned the provisions in the American draft for making the disarmament treaty effective. Professor Shotwell said that these provisions were taken from last year's League of Nations disarmament plan, that they were admittedly unsatisfactory, and probably would be changed.

In reply to a question by Miss Mary C. Humphrey of Kentucky, Professor Shotwell said that the Permament Conference provided for in the American draft was to include not only the technical experts of the general staffs, but was also to represent "the enlightened public opinion of the world."

Francis Hankin of Montreal urged the importance of approaching the disarmament question by attempts to lessen the economic burdens of heavy armaments.

LEAGUE ROUND TABLE

Sir James Arthur Salter, Director of the Economic and Finance Section of the League of Nations, declared at the League Round Table this morning that members of the League do not sacrifice their sovereignty. It is only when the different governments voluntarily agree to a course of action that they cooperate in such action, he explained. When they fail to agree, he went on, "the different Governments are free to act as if there had been no League intervention. In the full exercise of their sovereignty."

The things that a country entering the League promises, he continued, are as follows: Not to resort to war until they have first submitted the dispute to arbitration or discussion with other members of the League in the council; not to go to war to enforce a claim which the Arbitration Court or all the members of the Council deem unjust; and to cooperate in economic sanctions against a country which has resorted to war in contravention of the above provisions. The last promise, he pointed out, held good only if the Council was unanimous in deciding against the country going to war.

"The general engagement in Article 10," he went on, "must be read in conjunction with the other provisions of the covenant.

"What, then, of voting power? Voting power is practically nothing for the working of the League. Except for elections, procedure and certain exceptional administrative tasks, the League works by unanimity of all countries interested. When the Council considered the plan of Hungarian reconstruction, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia, Serbia and Rumania became additional members of the Council as countries especially interested, and the agreement of every one of them was necessary before the plan was adopted. The idea that a State undertakes to do what any majority of other States may consider desirable is a pure delusion. States remain sovereign and decide separately themselves what they will do or will not do."

The maintenance of the sovereignty of the members of the League, he said, had not destroyed the League's effectiveness, as the force of public opinion, once the League had announced a decision, increased the power of the League in preventing disorder. The complete organisation of the League, he said, gave it a great advantage over independent conference, which are uncertain of taking place and without the services of impartial experts.

EUROPEAN CRISIS

Profesor Moritz J. Bonn of Berlin tonight delivered the first of his series of lecturer on "The Crisis in European Democracy." A member of a prominent banking family of Germany, Professor Bonn has taught finance and economics in Berlin and Munich, has written many works on these subjects, and has participated in the German deliberations on the Dawes report.

He dealt tonight with the discontent felt in Europe, especially evidenced in Germany and Italy, and with the political democratic institutions as they have existed since the war. He attempted to explain why "Democracy stands at a discount today in large parts of Europe."

Chief among the reasons, Professor Bonn went on, was that the standard of living was lower under the democracies of today than it was under the monarchies before the war.

"The man in the street in Germany today," he said, "remembers that living was fairly cheap, wages were good, unemployment was scarce and money was stable, when William II. was Emperor. He could move freely about the country, and in most cases, nobody stopped his emigration or immigration.

"Today living is expensive, wages are low, unemployment is widespread, money has only just recovered its stability, passport regulations restrict his moving about.

"Not having studied political theories and constitutions, he comes to the conclusion that if democracy means the present state of affairs, while monarchy can be identified with the things he once enjoyed, democracy is not worth while having."

Critics of democracy abroad, he went on, also compare "the evident efficiency of the bureaucratic Administrations before the war with the lamentable short comings of parliamentary government in the present European chaos." Public opinion in many cases takes the same view. He pointed out that Continental opinion believed in experts and thought that the distribution of posts formerly held by experts to politicians was the beginning of corruption in government.

Professor Bonn included among the danger to democracy abroad the decreases in public morality all over the Continent and the increase in violence.

POPULATION PROBLEMS

In his round table conference on "Population and Related Problems" today Professor Henry Pratt Fairchild of New York University advocated the restriction of the birth rate in order to elevate the social and economic conditions of a country and to prevent overpopulation.

"Granted that a society desires a certain rate of increase," he said, "the lower the birth and death rates by which it is accomplished, the better. In fact, it is an almost infalliable rule that high birth and death rates are associated with backward or degraded, social and economic conditions, while low birth and death rates are characteristic of advanced society. In point of fact, both birth and death rates have been declining in Western society for a hundred years or so, but the death rate has been declining enough faster than the birth rate, so that the rate of growth of population has tended to increase."

Turned down again! Reason—only one arm. He finds it difficult to get a job because industrial efficiency demands that there be a complete man at every machine. Yet the successful applicant is frequently much less fitted for his work than the one-armed man, for employment managers are hiring "one-eyed" workers without knowing it. In America there are twenty-five million people who don't realize that they need glasses. Call them "one-eyed," for two eyes which do not see properly may be of no more use than one.

If you are an employer have your employees' eyes examined without delay.

If you are an employee and your employer has not done this have your eyes examined at once.

British Women's Association Notes

At a meeting of the Fete Committee of the British Women's Association held last Monday, it was decided to postpone the B.W.A. Children's Fete that had been arranged to take place in October. The feeling of the Committee was that owing to the war, this is not the time to ask for outside support, nor the time for a public entertainment. The Committee want the children to understand that the Fete is only postponed, the idea has not been given up, but simply delayed until a more suitable time. As the Recreation Committee are in need of funds to carry on their social evenings, etc., and as the ladies who were furnishing a few stalls for the Fete have their things already made, it has been decided to hold a sale of work at Headquarters on Tuesday, October 21. All members of the Association are asked to keep that day free, and to tell their friends about it. Among the many attractions will be a Dahlia show, and in this the American Woman's Club is co-operating by sending exhibits from Members of their Gardening Department.

A delightful stall of all kinds of woolen garments for children will be provided by Mrs. Rayden, Mrs. Rayden and her helpers have been working hard all the summer, and have a fine selection of very attractive things.

A Home Produce Stall will be under the direction of Mrs. Brankstone and her helpers, at which home-made jam, cakes, etc, will be sold. This should prove a very tempting stall. Mrs. Dowie will be in charge of a Sweets Stall, always a center of attraction.

The Gardening Section of the B.W.A. will supply a Garden Produce Stall. There will also be fortune telling, tea and refreshments—the latter in the capable hands of the Entertainment Committee—and a band to play cheerful music.

Members are again reminded of the date, Tuesday, October 21, and the good cause, and it is hoped that a full attendance will show their appreciation of the efforts for their amusement that the Recreation Committee has at heart.

Chinese Government Railways
Kiaochow Tsinan Line

The public is hereby informed that it is the policy of the Railway to purchase railway materials and supplies of the best quality at the lowest price. If merchants wish to transact business with this Railway, they are advised to offer goods of high quality and quote reasonable prices. Under no circumstances shall special gifts or rebates be given to the Railway purchasing agent or other agents of this Railway and no secret understandings shall be tolerated.

Ever since I took office as Managing Director, I have been informed of the above-mentioned practices adopted by different merchants in soliciting the business of this Railway. I really detest such business methods and have therefore put the matter under thorough investigation.

Recently I was greatly surprised to receive several letters from a certain company promising me a certain percentage taken out of their net profit as a gift if we gave them our orders. I have come to the conclusion that the rumour of offering an illegal commission to the staff of our Materials Department is not without foundation, it was really demoralising for this latter company to contemplate bribery under the disguise of such high-sounding terms as rebates and gifts, instead of doing business with us honestly.

We all know that rebates or gifts are nothing but another form of bribery. Morally, it lowers one's character and legally, both the giver and the receiver should be put under the penalty of the Law. During my administration of this Railway, I shall deadly fight against such dishonesty as bitter enemy and shall see that this virgin field not to be sowed with those undesirable seeds. Therefore let it be known to all whom it may concern that any merchant doing business with this Railway shall hereafter follow the proper course of business transaction and shall enter fair competition with other business men. On no account shall dishonest methods be tolerated which, I believe, will have an effect in the preservation of merchants' good name.

Should bribery or cases of a like nature be discovered, the Railway employee or employees who received such gifts, irrespective of the amount, shall be dismissed immediately and punished accordingly. The name of the bribing firm, irrespective of its nationality, shall be made known to the public through the publicity of the newspapers and such a company shall be permanently deprived of the privilege of submitting tenders to the Railway. I earnestly hope that this will be clearly understood.

Japan Business Magnate Talks On Luxury Tariff

"Higher Prices On Luxuries Will Cause Wider Use Of These Articles"

Referring to the proposed Luxury Tariff, Mr. Sanji Muto, Managing Director of the Kanegafuchi Spinning Company and one of the prominent business men in Japan, makes the following remarks:

"I hope that the rumor for the Government's plan to raise the import duties on luxuries will prove groundless for the sake of the honor of Mr. Hamaguchi, the Finance Minister.

"The nation giving itself to levity and frivolty and indulging in extravagance is due in the last analysis to the careless financial program of the country for many years past as can be gathered from the address by Mr. Hamaguchi himself. The present government of the country is closely analogous to that operated by Mizuno-Echizennokami in the closing days of the Tokugawa Shogunate. The disorganised state of the finances of the country at that time is to be attributed to the fact that the Roju, or Prime Minister tried to meet the deficit of the revenue of the Government by a margin of profit derived from recasting the currency with the consequential deterioration of the quality of the currency and inflation.

HAS FAITH IN MR. HAMAGUCHI

"This financial nostrum was responsible for the rise in price and also extravagance then prevailing. In trying to check extravagance merely by appealing to their power without seeking its fundamental cause, the authorities of those days made themselves a laughing stock in the eyes of the people at this time. I believe Mr. Hamaguchi the Finance Minister, is the last man to resort to such a policy of the trifiest importance as raising the import duties on luxuries which amount to only twenty or thirty millions of yen yearly without inquiring into the basic cause of extravagance after the glaring example of blunder set by Mizuno-Echizennokami, while hesitating to carry out the removal of the gold export embargo which he upheld while out of office and not caring to effect a drastic cut at the state expenditure and thus leaving untouched the indiscrete financial program bequeathed by the former Governments which is the root-cause of the high price and the extravagance of the nation.

"The reported proposal to raise the import duties on luxuries appear to be based on the fallacious idea that heavy tariff would bring up their prices and therefore prevent the people from using them. The fact seems to be taken no notice of that the luxuries are of such a nature that the higher their price, the wider will their use become. Even granting that the raising of the import duties will serve to check their importation, it can only result in the rise of the price of their native equivalents.

POLITICAL POWER OVER-ESTIMATED

"Japanese politicians appear to overestimate the power of politics. Because they think that even things in the domain of morals can be subjected to the power of politics, they attempt at the prevention of the imports of luxuries which is after all a moral question. They have another fallacious idea, that is, they think that political power can have sway over economics. It is for this reason that they sometimes attempt to regulate prices by enacting an anti-profiteering act.

"Needless to say that the power of politics influences both moral and economic matters, though it cannot exercise such a strong influence over them as appears to be thought by our politicians. In order to remedy the present deterioration of morals in this country, it is, therefore, necessary to remedy evils arising from politics, or the root cause of evils lying at the finances, as was declared by Mr. Hamaguchi, the Finance Minister on July 1, before Parliament.

"I believe that Mr. Hamaguchi of whom much is expected by the nation as a typical financier, would never betray the confidence of the nation thus reposed in him by repeating the blunder committed in the closing days of the Tokugawa regime instead of giving attention to the matter of vital importance. I also believe that even if the measure of raising the duties on luxuries, which is utterly worthless in the light of politico-economics, were suggested by his subordinates, it would not be approved by Mr. Hamaguchi.

"The view that raising the import duties on luxuries would benefit the native manufacturers of luxuries is perfectly right. Worse still, the rise of the price of luxuries, which would be the direct result of the measure, would influence the prices of other commodities and eventually bring about such results as to undermine the financial policy declared by the Finance Minister.

"What demands the attention of the Finance Minister is that merchants and manufacturers will be so strained by the depression to be caused by the operation of the administrative and financial readjustment and retrenchment that they will ask the Government for the various forms of relief and protection which they know is more feasible. To raise the import duties on luxuries at this moment would mean a step in the wrong direction. It is to be hoped earnestly that the Finance Minster wil seriously consider the situation and refrain from raising import duties even on luxuries so that he may not lose the respect of the thinking men of society for his ability as financier."

British Trade Shows Considerable Gain

New York, Aug. 20.—British commerce for the first six months of the year shows a considerable improvement over the same period in 1923, both imports and exports being higher, according to the Bankers Trust Company.

The total value of imports for the six months was £598,823,937, an increase of no less than £59,548,409 over the corresponding period of last year, while British exports were valued at £388,464,802, showing an advance of £5,785,775 for the similar period of 1923. Re-exports at £74,128,131 were also £10,264,347 more for the six months.

An analysis of the returns shows that, in regard to imports, the principal decreases, when compared with the previous June, were in respect of dutiable food and drink, which fell £2,492,793; meat, Y981,768, grain and flour, £582,338; wool and timber, £448,353; and wool, raw and waste, £425,540. The principal increase came under the heading of raw cotton and cotton waste, which showed an advance of £3,667,715. The total increase in raw materials and articles mainly manufactured was £2,153,156.

The chief decrease in exports, again comparing the respective months of June, were: Coal, £3,222,734; iron and steel and manufactures, £525,251; chemicals, drugs and dyes, £481,216 and chemicals, drugs and dyes, £481,216 and coke, £420,843. On the other hand, cotton yarns and manufactures increased by £2,541,907; and vehicles, including locomotives, ships and aircraft, by £661,208.

Exports of coal dropped from 6,588,651 tons of the value of £8,950,779 to 4,882,201 tons of the value of £5,828,045.

Hongkong Stocks

Messrs. Moxon & Taylor state in their report dated Hongkong, September 19:

Our market continues very strong and a large amount of shares have changed hands during the week. Most investment stocks are also continuing in good demand.

The Shanghai market is quiet with buyers and sellers apart.

The following are the principal alterations since last week:—

Hongkong Banks:—Have eased off a little and have come to business at $1,200.

Unions:—Are firm with buyers at $237 and more would be paid for any shares offering.

Lands:—Are firm and are wanted at quotations.

Humphreys. — Are slightly easier and are wanted at $23½.

Cements:—Have also been in good demand, closing with buyers at $23½ cash and $24 for Dec.

Kowloon Wharves: — Are slightly easier with sellers at $213.

Shanghai Docks:—Have come to business at Tls. 90.

Hongkong Ropes:—Are steady with buyers at $62½ for Combined shares.

Hongkong Electrics:—Are firm and wanted at $43½.

Hongkong Trams: — Have slightly declined during the week and close with buyers at $42 cash.

Peak Trams:—Continue strong with few shares offering.

China Sugars:—Are firm and have come to business at $410.

China Providents:—Are slightly easier with buyers at $16¾ for Old and probably $5¼ for New shares.

China Lights:—Have been the medium of a large business at rising prices and have come to business at $28 cash for combined shares.

Dairy Farms:—Are easier with sellers at $27½ cash.

Lane Crawfords:—Are wanted at $18¼.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORRIE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Ladywood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:

"My daughter Florrie was suffering with a very bad head covered with Sores and Eruptions, and in fact her mother was afraid to comb her hair. She had been under several doctors, but all to no purpose, so I began to think she would never get well again and lose all her hair. As your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' cured me of Glandular Swellings in the Neck some years ago, and so averted my having to undergo an operation, I decided to give 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."

SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

Of all Dealers. Ask for and see you get

Clarke's Blood Mixture
"Everybody's Blood Purifier."

YOU CAN BE CERTAIN OF QUALITY WHEN YOU BUY RUBBER GOODS

There are just two ways of spending your money when you buy one or more of the thousands of different articles made of or in combination with rubber.

One way is to take chances—to gamble and buy just a tire, inner tube, hot-water bottle or pair of over shoes.

The other way is to buy the good rubber products of the largest manufacturer of rubber goods in the world, the United States Rubber Company.

When you buy any article bearing the trade mark of the United States Rubber Company you know it is good—uniformly good. For now, with the United States Rubber Company's two new revolutionary discoveries—The New Sprayed Rubber and The New Web Cord—you are assured of the purest rubber ever produced, with its natural properties unimpaired and uniform quality throughout.

Look for the "U.S." trade mark when next you buy anything made of or with rubber.

MARRIAGE

HUTCHINSON—PARKER.—On September 20, 1924, at the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, Shanghai, by the Rev. Father Jacquinot, S. J., William, Jr., son of William and Elizabeth Hutchinson, to Mabel Lilian Parker, daughter of the late W. L. Parker and Mrs. Aline Parker. 70463 S. 25

Learning The Lessons Of Bad Government

A FEW DAYS AGO there was a report from Wusih, the industrial city midway between Shanghai and Nanking, stating that the merchants in that city, most of whom are former Shanghai compradores, had been forced to raise the sum of $160,000 for the use of Kiangsu troops in the present war against Chekiang. When General Lu Yung-hsiang left Hangchow a few days ago, he is supposed to have asked the Chamber of Commerce in that city to supply him with a parting gift of $400,000 to be used in continuing his fight against Kiangsu from the Shanghai front. In addition to this, other towns in the fighting areas have been forced to raise money for the war. The merchants in Huchow are reported to have raised $60,000 for one section of the Chekiang army and then another section came in, and when no more money was forthcoming, part of the place was looted.

Even in the native areas of Shanghai outside the borders of the foreign Settlements, Chinese merchants are being "squeezed" for funds to feed the war machine. Merchants unfortunate enough to have properties within reach of the militarists, regardless of where they are located, are feeling the pinch and it will require many years for them to recover from the strain of this struggle. In Tsingtao the merchants, local city administration and the railway connecting with Tsinanfu is being forced to support the section of General Wu Pei-fu's fleet stationed on the Shantung coast.

Thus do the merchants and business men of China pay the bills. It may be argued that the same thing was done in Western lands to support the World War, but at least it was done through organised systems of taxation and according to law. Undoubtedly the heavy taxes which followed the World War have been the chief cause of the agitation in favor of arms limitation and the agitation against further wars in Western lands. Perhaps the heavy bills which Chinese merchants are now paying, not only in the form of squeeze and extortion but in ruined businesses and destroyed properties, may have a similar effect out here in bringing home to the Chinese propertied classes the disastrous effects of useless struggles such as China is now experiencing. It is said that people only learn through experience: therefore we may assume that Chinese merchants are now receiving a very bitter lesson in the processes of government—or rather of mis-government.

Reviving Hope In Europe

BUT for the fact that the Chekiang-Kiangsu conflict is preoccupying the minds of people out here, the official announcement from Berlin published today in another column that Germany will shortly endeavor to enter the League of Nations on the footing of a Big Power would command a far larger measure of public attention. The news is invested with a tremendous significance, for the entry of Germany into the League will be a powerful factor in the preservation of the future peace of Europe.

So far as one has been able to glean facts from the somewhat fragmentary cables recently received here, the indications are that Europe is on the mend. In this connection, it is noteworthy that the fourth session of the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, U. S. A., has been distinguished by the strong tone of optimism that its proceedings have radiated. The points of view of the several lecturers and round table leaders are far from being identical. They represent several nationalities, many different professions, diverse special backgrounds. On one point, however, all find themselves in substantial agreement. There is no audible dissent from the view, most directly expressed by Sir Arthur Salter and Professor A. A. Young, that Europe is on the right path. The picture of a continent hurtling toward a bottomless abyss, limned in flaming colors by John Maynard Keynes, Frank A. Vanderlip and Signor Nitti, and in more restrained tints by Sir Philip Gibbs and many others, is authoritatively declared to be without relation to present conditions. Somber as was the outlook a year ago, the skies are definitely clearing now.

An American writer, in the course of a thoughtful contribution on the subject of world currents to a home contemporary, tells us that there seems to be a law of compensation in these matters which decrees that an increase of tension in one part of the world will ease the pressure somewhere else, and the eyes of the people of the world turn anxiously from one continent to another as the point of maximum instability shifts about. Last January Professor Blakeslee, of Clark University, speaking before the school of politics conducted by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, pronounced the situation in the Far East as good as it well could be, thanks to the Washington Conference, so far as China is concerned and the prompt action of Americans after the Japanese disaster, while that in Europe, to say the very least, gave ground for serious concern. Within two months after that time the Dawes Committee had submitted its plan for the stabilisation of the relations between Germany and her late enemies, and within a few months, the position has been completely reversed. The point of gravest concern has now been transferred abruptly from Europe to the Far East.

We should not, however, be so intensely engrossed in present events in this region of China that we make ourselves blind to significant trends in Europe. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has induced France and Germany to shake hands. They have done it a little reluctantly and doubtfully, but they have done it. That, at the moment, is the extent of the real progress achieved by the recent London Conference. It is not an inconsiderable achievement, and it would be both unjust and unfair not to recognise that it is a great personal triumph for the tireless energy, tact and devotion to his task of the British Prime Minister. Mr. MacDonald has had luck: but he has used it to the uttermost (which by no means all men do) with the result that he has achieved in six months what British statesmen have been trying vainly to accomplish for six years. The achievement is important because so long as France and Germany refused to shake hands, it was idle for anyone to talk about restoring the peace of Europe. It could not be restored. This obstacle has now at long last been got out of the way, and in this sense, if in this sense alone, the agreement reached last month is really the foundation of a new order in Europe.

And not the least important part of that foundation is the League of Nations which Germany now seeks to enter. President Ebert has just emphasised that the confidence of the world is essential to her in the heavy task involved in the execution of the London Agreement, and so far as the other Powers are concerned, it is better that Germany be in the League than outside of it. The League is establishing itself as an economic quite as much as a political organisation, and in the restabilising of Europe the professional secretariat has had a role fully as important as that of the Council and Assembly. And if there eventuates real cooperation among the Powers of Europe, including Germany, to the end of reconstructing a new continent out of the wreckage of the War, it is not unreasonable to hope that such cooperation will hasten the day of America's entry into the League, thus investing that body with correspondingly greater authority. And if America joins, Russia cannot very well afford to stay out. The League must be made really representative of the nations of the world. At present it has not that representative character.

Our Literary Column

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

OUT OF IT

"I'm going to give up my job," said a young man to me the other day.

Now, his position was an enviable one. He had a good salary, and could hold his place during good behavior. He was fixed for life. He had a comfortable home with wife and baby. His work hours were short, allowing him plenty of leisure to amuse or to improve himself. His duties, while important, were such as he could easily discharge. The office, of which he was the head, practically ran itself, so well had he organised and systematised it.

A host of other young fellows looked on him with covetousness: He had arrived.

I asked him why he wanted to quit.

After reflecting a bit, to see if he could make himself understood, he said:

"Well, the trouble is, I'm out of it."

I did understand.

He was a real and an unspoiled soul, and to such to be out of it means to miss life.

What does it means to be out of it?

It simply means not to be pitting one's self against hazard, or fate or luck or destiny, if you like, in gaining a livelihood.

To a normal, healthy man life is best when it is something of a game.

To have your living assured, to know that all you have to do to be provided for all your days is to be careful and not to be impudent to your employer, is something like shooting setting hens instead of flying ducks.

Very little good work in the world has been done by men in sinecures.

The great inventions somehow do not seem to come from endowed professors. The telegraph, the phonograph, the cinematograph, the sewing-machine, the sewing-machine, the steel-wool, rubber, the automobile, the card-index system, the fountain-pen—what universities or technology institutes projected them?

What literary scholarship, produced a Kipling, a Bernard Shaw, a Maupassant, a Wagner, or a Giotto?

And as for religion. St. Paul and Sovonarola, Luther, Knox and Wesley, General Booth and Mrs. Eddy were only successful (I speak only of their results; I am no judge of their rightness) when they cut loose from all safety and risked ridicule, starvation, or worse.

Of all the people in the great business house, the man who is getting the most out of life is the man who is at the head, carrying the responsibility, not knowing whether tomorrow will bring loss or gain, putting his brain against all the chance of failure.

I wonder if socialists ever suspect that, if their fondest dreams should be realised and every man should have a good life-job, the fun of the thing would be taken out.

Of course, uncertainty of employment has its ugly side. But it is the ugly sides of things that make a man a man. Some souls are cowed by the whip of fortune; others are stung to courage and action.

To take away danger might save the weak, but it would ruin the strong.

We have often wondered why poets and artists and musicians are proverbially hungry; we do not realise the psychological connection between precariousness and good work.

To get the best work out of the highest types of minds you must throw them into the water and tell them to survive—or drown.

And this young man felt out of it, out of the big, bully man-struggle. He wanted to fight. He didn't want sugar-plums.

He, too, felt the call of the Spirit of Life, that ever says to the protected pets she loves and would make strong men of: "One thing thou lackest. Sell all thou hast and give to the poor, and come, follow me!"

THE OVERSEA CHINESE AND THE WAR

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—I shall be highly obliged if you will kindly insert this in your valuable columns.

The war between Kiangsu and Chekiang has been staged for almost three weeks and everything seems to be paralysed, especially the opening of schools. However, although General Lu faces more odds than Chi no one dares to state definitely as to which side will come out victorious.

Instead of confining the military operations within the few battlefields of Kiangsu and Chekiang the war has now spread throughout the length and breadth of the country. The latest news as mentioned in your today's paper has brought the peaceful province of Shanshi into the verge of this business of killing. By sending troops to help the socalled Peking Government, Governor Yen, who thus far commands the respects of the people, will stain his own fame with as much crime as the champions of the rotten Peking Government and the blood-thirsty Chilites, Wu Pei-fu, Tsao Kun, Chi Hsieh-yuan, etc. have done. Should the report be true, immediate steps must be taken to prevent Governor Yen from participating in the present war.

Now, so far as I know this war has caused the oversea Chinese to side with the revolutionists rather than the rotten Peking Government. The opinions of Dr. Sun, General Lu and Marshal Chang and the cause advocated by them are highly esteemed at this time. The robbing of the presidential chair by Tsao Kun and the supports given him by Wu Pei-fu, Chi Hsieh-yuan and the socalled Christian General are abominable and humiliating. One influential Chinese-owned paper in the south published the story of Tsao Kun as a fisherman who later became a bandit and then the president of the Chinese Republic!

Whatever may be the outcome of the present war, patriotic Chinese should side with the cause advocated by the revolutionists. We can't stand a nominal republican government with Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu and Chi Hsieh-yuan hiding behind the screen and dragging the country into hell.

Thanking you once more for your valuable columns.

AN OVERSEA CHINESE.
Shanghai, Sept. 24, 1924.

THE BOXER INDEMNITY

Editor, The China Press:

Sir.—We are sending you attached a copy of a resolution passed by this Chamber, in connection with the disposition of the Remitted Boxer Indemnity Fund. This resolution has been addressed to Dr. Paul Monroe, the appointee of the President of the United States to decide as to the use of the Fund. We feel that the resolution may be of interest to the general public.

Sincerely yours,
American Chamber of Commerce,
Hankow.
WILL STORMS,
Secretary.

The resolution follows:

"We, the American Chamber of Commerce of Hankow, strongly favor the investment of the Returned Boxer Indemnity Funds in some enterprise which in itself will benefit the Chinese public as a whole, and at the same time serve to create a permanent foundation, the income from which may be devoted to educational and cultural purposes. We do not favor the dissipation of the principal of these Funds by direct expenditure in educational work.

"Since the Szechuan-Hankow Railway is the only Chinese line under construction in which Americans are financially interested, we believe the Boxer Funds should be invested in continuing the construction of this railway. Careful provision should be made for American supervision of the original expenditure of the Funds and the future operation of this railway to the end that the income from the foundation be assured as a permanent endowment for educational and cultural purposes."

MARSHAL WU PEI-FU

Editor, The China Press:

Sir—He is being written and talked about a good deal at present, because he is the center of China's military forces, of the military forces which support the Peking Government, the Government which the Diplomatic Corps and the Russian Ambassador recognise as the legal Government of the Republic of China. Telegraphic and cable messages are informing the world at large all about this man, who has deserted his famous headquarters at Loyang, the ancient capital of an Empire, in order to assume control in the north against his undefeated—or, rather, not vanquished—rival, Chang Tso-lin, in Manchuria, across the Great Wall.

But cablegrams, telegrams and wireless do not tell the human interest part of the man, of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, Generalissimo of China's armies, who has undertaken to force the Manchurian war-lord and other militarists not owing allegiance to the Peking Government to resign office and submit to Peking law and order. This small man from Shantung province is well-known in China, having figured prominently during the last five years of political history in China, and he has been interviewed innumerable times, motion-pictured, also, and, as a whole, made familiar to readers in many cities. What else is there to know about him? Simply this: he has taken over the defence of the Peking Government against assault; he means to carry through his policy of reunification by force; and he is going about it with a minimum loss of energy, red tape, and other Oriental drawbacks. In fact, he is quick, to the point, determined, and unusually Western in his methods and characteristics.

He reached Peking early Wednesday morning, before daylight, and set to work at once, catching forty winks at noon. Early Thursday morning all momentous questions relative to army organisation had been settled, and Wu was in command. He began receiving press correspondents; but no formal meeting with the entire group of correspondents, American, British, French, Japanese and Chinese, was held until Saturday morning at half-past eight. Only a few lucky ones were able to see the Marshal Thursday. When I was presented that afternoon, he was seated at his table in a room next his bedroom, where a Chinese bed with white mosquito cloth awaited his pleasure. He arose, motioned to chairs, picked up his brush pen, signed himself on a list of orders and other papers piled up before him, invited his guest to go ahead despite his other business, and promptly interrupted to give his own view of the situation.

The Marshal looked particularly well; his cheeks were pink, like a Westerner's; his light brown eyes were alive and quick; the wrinkles at the corners of his eyes came into play when he smiled; his remarkably high-shaped head was close-shaven; he wore a military jacket and white cloth trousers, minus decorations of any sort. Behind him stood military attendants, who provided tea and cigarettes. Spread on the table were maps, dotted with red flags indicating the positions of his troops at the front, and presently General Wang Huai-ching, commander of the Second Army at Chaoyang, came in for a few moments. Soldiers with red arm bands, denoting combat, stood outside, many with bags and baskets of personal belongings. General Wang, himself, was on the point of departure for the front in Jehol. The Marshal was sure of himself, his intentions and his plans. His mind was made up, and he did not hesitate to express himself when he declared his firm determination to finish this fight completely, which meant either the "rebel" Chang Tso-lin or the Peking Government would surrender.

At the close of the brief meeting, the Marshal arose to escort to the door, a ceremony seldom practised by him even when high officials call. He used the conventional Chinese bow in bidding goodbye, but this morning, when leaving the meeting of all the correspondents, he waited at the door and shook hands with each man as the latter went out. This morning, too, the Marshal had more elaborate preparations made. A special hall in the Cabinet grounds was reserved, and a long table with tea cups and cigarettes was set for the thirty-odd men who arrived to hear his statement and to ask questions. Shortly after the time announced the Marshal, with a bodyguard of two generals and a number of soldiers, appeared in the doorway. He was dressed in plain civilian clothes, with a foreign-style hat on his head. This he doffed before bowing to his guests. Then he motioned to them to sit around the table.

Three interpreters accompanied the Marshal. They were the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs from Honan, the Marshal's own foreign relations secretary, and a Japanese secretary who interpreted for the Japanese correspondents. The Marshal spoke a few words in greeting, saying he regretted not to have time to call on each correspondent, and then made a few remarks on the situation, not hesitating over a word

A Shell Of Crystal Dust Around The Earth

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

One of the most difficult of astronomical phenomena to explain satisfactorily has always been the twinkling of the stars. Why do the fixed stars twinkle, while the planets (which otherwise resemble stars) do not twinkle? The light of a large planet when well above the horizon is as steady as that of a reading lamp, but a bright star in a similar position often flares and flutters like an electric arc, besides exhibiting, in flashes, beautiful prismatic hues.

The reason for the difference that would occur to a person unacquainted with astronomy would be that the star, being, as he is told, a sun, must exhibit the appearance of a glaring incandescent body, while the planet, being a cool globe like the earth, simply reflecting the sunshine, naturally shows a steadier light. This, however, is not the true explanation, which must be sought in the peculiarities of the earth's atmosphere, through which the light of both stars and planets penetrates before reaching our eyes.

Hitherto the generally accepted explanation has been that the difference with due to minute quiverings and currents of unequally heated air affecting the rays of light by producing rapid changes of refraction, the result being interference of the lightwaves, causing alternate extinctions and brightenings. A star, being a mere point of intense light, sends to the observer's eye an extremely narrow ray, which, because of its smallness, is greatly affected by the unsteadiness of the air, its entire light being at one instant apparently extinguished and at the next flashing out with redoubled brilliance.

But a French physicist, L. Vegard, offers an interesting variation of this explanation. His researches have led to the conclusion that there exists around the earth, above the level of about fifty-five miles, a shell of "nitrogen dust," probably crystalline in structure, and composed of excessively minute particles, carrying electric charges. This shell apparently extends to a height of several hundred miles, and according to M. Vegard, its existence is the cause of the auroral lights, which are produced when electric rays from the sun penetrate the nitrogen shell.

He also assumes that this electrified dust is the cause of the blue color of the sky, which it produces by scattering the shorter waves of light (the blue ones). He remarks that Lord Rayleigh's explanation of the blue sky light as due to scattering of the short waves by the gaseous molecules of the atmosphere, is insufficient because it fails to account for the fact that the sky is just as blue when seen from the highest mountain tops as from sea-level, although the upper air is relatively very rare.

Now, coming back to the cause of star-twinkling, M. Vegard points out that the narrow cone of light from a star in passing through the shell of nitrogen dust encounters relatively very few particles, while the broader one from a planet, which is many times larger in angular diameter, encounters many. In the first case variation in the number of encountered particles produces rapid and very noticeable changes of brightness, while in the second case variation in the number of particles included in the broader cone of light bears a far smaller proportion to their average number, so that the effect upon the brightness becomes unnoticeable.

The meaning of this explanation may be made clearer by inspection of the accompanying diagram.

The Half-and-Half Effect Is Smart for Coats and Gowns

The woman who is faced with the problem of having old frocks or wraps made over is really most fortunate just now. So is the woman who happens to have on hand short lengths of materials that have hitherto puzzled her. For this is a season when half-and-half effects are distinctly smart. When this idea is used in suits the top of the jacket and sleeves and lower part of the skirt may be in one material while the lower part of the jacket and top of the skirt are in another.

A favorite way to produce the half-and-half effect in coats is to make the top of the coat in stripes running up and down, while the lower part is in plain color. One smart autumn coat has the top made of tan and brown herringbone, while the lower part of the coat—from the hips down—and the ends of the sleeves are in plain dark brown. The sketch shows a coat the upper part of which is of brown rep with fine red stripe, while the lower part is of plain brown, which is also used to fashion the collar.

In response to this new type of frock and coat manufacturers of woolen materials are providing us with goods woven or colored lengthwise in two distinct manners. For instance, one half may be in plain while the other half is in checks, or half may be in diagonals while the other half is in some other fancy weave. With wide material of this sort it is possible to cut the garment so that the top or waist comes in one pattern while the lower part or skirt comes in the other pattern.

The coat in the sketch is interesting for another reason—it is distinctly of the wrap-around genus. And the prediction had been made that we were getting away from the wrap-around idea! True there were many smart coats and frocks that buttoned down the center, and there still are models of this sort. But you will find that the wrap-around idea prevails in furs, in sport coats and in evening wraps. Women apparently are still as willing as ever to hold their coats together and to put with the rather informal closing at the hips.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

YOUR FAVORITE MEAT

If you take the trouble to inquire you will almost surely find that in any group of Americans chicken in some form or other will take prime place among meats. Of fourteen people recently quizzed regarding meat preferences six preferred chicken in some form, six preferred beef, while there was only one vote for pork and one for lamb. Of the beef eaters three preferred roast beef and three beefsteak. Of the chicken eaters three liked roast chicken, while there was one vote each for fried and fricasse and for "chicken in any form."

While the honors may be equally divided between chicken and beef, you would undoubtedly find in any group that there were some who could not eat beef or did like it, while a positive distaste for chicken is very unusual. Moreover, many persons on a diet are not permitted to eat beef, whereas chicken is seldom on the list of prohibited foods. So if you are planning a dinner or luncheon of any sort you may be sure that when you select chicken for the meat course you will please the greatest number of your guests.

Interestingly enough any canvas of choices in meat will show that the preference almost always seems to be in favor of plain broiled or roasted meats. The person who likes lamb more than any other meat, usually prefers roast lamb or lamb chops to lamb stew or boiled lamb. It would be hard to find anyone to admit to a preference to a ragout of beef over beefsteak or roast beef. We may go to much pains to make chicken croquettes or chicken cutlets or chicken a la king or something of that sort for our guests, yet the majority of people would much prefer to have chicken simply roasted.

This much any canvas of meat preferences ought to show you that while the elaborately made meat dish is advisable when you wish to make use of tough cuts of meat, or soup meat from which much of the flavor has been taken, or of leftover meats, when you have opportunity to make use of prime pieces of meat the simpler method of cooking is almost always preferred.

YUE CHONG COAL COMPANY
25-26 North Soochow Road, Shanghai.

Telephones: North 651 and North 1717

We have been carrying on our business for more than thirty years and have been enjoying the confidence and commendation of the public. We are selling the coals of the best Chinese coal mines, such as, Dah Doong Coal, Ching Hsing Coal, Chung Hsing Coal, Tung Woo Coal, Houchi Coal, Liu Ho Kow Coal as well as Saghaline Coal. The Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway, Compagnie des Messageries Maritimes, and Italian, American, French and Chinese Warships, Cotton Mills and other industrial factories have been purchasing great quantities of coal from us, and our annual sale amounts to over 200,000 tons.

Our coal is best selected and at moderate prices, and consumers may rely on us in obtaining the right kind of coal as named on their order, and that is why our business has been increasing steadily.

Orders from foreign warships are especially welcome. It is understood that warships used to purchase coal from the merchants who are not belonging to the coal trade and who obtain their coal after passing many hands. These merchants do not understand what is the right coal for warships, who are liable to be cheated by these merchants. Such practices bring serious damage to the names of our Chinese coal mines.

We are doing business on thoroughly honest basis in a measure to preserve the name of our Chinese coals as well as to push our business. We guarantee the satisfaction of foreign steamships who may place orders with us.

Hsia Hung Chong, Proprietor

Finds Jobs For Mites; Eight Thousand Placed

He was 14 years old, he had working papers, and he was wise with the wisdom of the next to the eldest of seven children in a garment worker's home in New York. His name was Benjamin Goden. When Benjamin walked into the placement office of the Vocational Service for Juniors, in the East Side Continuation School on Chrystie Street, looking for a job, he had his answer ready for the placement counselor who asked him what he most wanted to be.

"I want to be a retired business man," said Benjamin.

Yielding at length to the argument that glorified jobs like that must be reached step by step, he consented to accept a place as errand boy for a candy store on Madison Avenue, at $10 a week. But it was clear that Benjamin thought slightingly of work. And can he be blamed for this?

"Children of working men rarely want to do what their father do," Dr. Mary Holmes Stevens Hayes, Director of the Vocational Service, said recently. "This is perfectly reasonable, because, although when people talk about labor they generally talk in terms of the skilled, highly paid trades, the great bulk of labor is engaged in dull routine, making over and over some one part of some one product. The life of the mass of factory workers has very little in it to make it appeal to their children."

But what jobs are there for children who must go out to work at 14, or whose parents think they must?

Blind alley jobs mostly, leading to nothing. Union regulations name 16 as the minimum age for entering apprenticeships for the skilled trades, and the better type of business men and manufacturers will rarely employ children under 16. The Vocational Service approves this stand, but it is pushed by circumstances into the position of helping babes and suckings to do what it doesn't think they aught to do. No one regrets more than do its members that every year more than 35,000 boys and girls quit the schools of New York to go job-hunting. But the law permits it, and they do it. That is why one of the three functions of the Vocational Service for Juniors is the maintenance of three placement offices, one on Chrystie Street, one in the West Side Continuation School on Thirteenth Street and one at the Board of Education's Bureau of Attendance on East Sixty-seventh Street.

EIGHT THOUSAND PLACED

The city gives the placement offices free housing. Some time the organisation hopes, it will take vocational service over and make it a part of the school system.

At these offices in the course of a year between 7,000 and 8,000 children are given, within the limits of the jobs at the command of the service, chances to work at what best suits them. Generally the youngsters don't take the search for work very seriously. The natural fickleness of adolescence and the lack of compelling interest in what they can get to do often makes them refuse places or change from one to another without any apparent reason, and a typical employment record of an average boy or girl of 15 shows that jobs are seldom kept more than a month or two, and sometimes not more than a few days.

"This is annoying to their employers," said Dr. Hayes, "but the worst thing about it is the effect of such a life on the growing child. A system which makes the impressible years from 14 to 16 of a large group of children wasted years, a time of drifting from one blind alley job to another, must end to undermine the stability of the growing generation. These years should be spent in school."

The organisation's clearance bureau, where employers place their orders for juvenile help, is at 122 East Twenty-fifth Street. During the six months ending last March, 6,292 orders were received, the greater number from factories, the rest mainly from offices and stores. Directly an order is received it is checked up to see if it conforms with child labor regulations. If it does, and if it is from a new client, it is handed over to a counselor for personal investigation, unless, indeed it is listed with the information service of the State Industrial Commission, in which case, of course, investigation is not necessary.

No matter how many jobs there are, there are never enough to supply the applicants. Every morning at 9 the children come crowding into the placement offices and the counselors settle to their task of tactfully interviewing them, one by one. The findings are set down under the proper headings on neat pink cards, called employment registration cards, and any one reading one of those documents knows more about the child than most people know about their own offspring.

Children who seem mentally subnormal are sent to the staff psychologist, Dr. Margaret L. Potter, who takes them in hand and puts them through the Binet-Simon test as revised by Stanford University. Cases that call for public relief are turned over to the social agencies with which the Vocational Service co-operates. But the great bulk of the children are sent out to the jobs that seem to fit them best.
